Chandler,Franco

Amatori,Takashi Hikino,1997 Written in nontechnical terms Big Business and the Wealth of Nations explains how the dynamics of big business have influenced national and international economies in the twentieth century A path breaking study it provides the first systematic treatment of big business in advanced emerging and centrally planned economies from the late nineteenth century when big businesses first appeared in American and West European manufacturing to the present These essays written by internationally known historians and economists help one to understand the essential role and functions of big businesses past and present The Advanced Materials Revolution and the Japanese System of

Innovation Helena M. M. Lastres,2016-07-27 The book develops the idea that a shift in the techno economic paradigm creates opportunities for the rise of new firms industries and countries to technological leadership making the adoption of an adequate national system of innovation fundamental to success in such changes This task is supported by a case study of how the Japanese System of Innovation has responded to the advanced materials revolution of the last two decades as well as diffusion of the information technology paradigm

Japanese Industrialisation Ian Inkster, 2012-08-06 Japan's escape from colonialism and its subsequent industrialisation has taken it to the point where its economy is second only to that of the US. This comprehensive volume examines how this rapid change of fortunes occurred and the impact it has had on East Asia and the world at large. Taking a wide range and focus, Inkster looks at the history of Japan's industrial development in a social and cultural context.

Protectionism and World Welfare Dominick Salvatore, 1993-09-23 This volume addresses highly topical issues at a crucial time in international economic relations. The world has never been closer to dismantling the liberal multilateral trading system which has been painstakingly established and successfully operated since the Second World War. In this volume many of the world's most distinguished economists examine the movement toward protectionism, bilateralism and regionalism and its causes, effects and possible solutions. The contributors are theorists, researchers and advisors to governments and international organizations who are at the forefront of trade theory, policy and practice and whose analyses have a real impact on international trade. By collecting together these analyses in a single volume, this book provides a unique survey for students and scholars of economics and all those concerned with trade theory and policy in business and government.

Japan's Computer and Communications Industry Martin Fransman, 1995 This work draws on and extends the theoretical framework developed by such authors as Richard Nelson, Sidney Winter, David Teece, Alfred Chandler, Nathan Rosenberg and Christopher Freeman through an empirical analysis of the evolution of the Japanese information and communications IC industry. Particular attention is paid to the development of a theory of the firm which is consistent with this empirical objective. The Japanese IC industry contains three main segments: computers and software, telecommunications equipment and semiconductors. The work asks: How did such Japanese companies as NTT, NEC, Fujitsu, Hitachi, Toshiba and Sumitomo Electric manage to catch up and become some of the largest companies in the world? Why have they not been as successful in global markets as their counterparts in consumer electronics and automobiles? What role was played by NTT's system of controlled competition and by MITI? Based on over 600 personal interviews over eight years with Japanese leaders, this book provides new analyses and empirical material on this crucial industry.

International Competitiveness and Technological Change Marcela Miozzo, Vivien Walsh, 2006-08-10 In Lives Charmed, intimate conversations with extraordinary people, writer Linda Sivertsten interviews many of the celebrities she came to know through being a professional dog walker in Los Angeles. Her intention was to find people who were experiencing success in every area of life while living a purposeful and environmentally conscious existence. She wanted to discover the common thread in those who found a happy balance. Linda Sivertsten asks them about their fears, insecurities and their spiritual discipline: whether and how they pray and what they do to continue the good fortune in their lives. Read how celebrities such as Woody Harrelson, Leeza Gibbons, Arnold Palmer, Lord Robin Russell, Catherine Oxenberg, Robert A. Johnson, Beatrice Wood, Robert

Townsend Paul Williams and others answer the in depth and personal questions that Linda Sivertsen presents History of Technology Volume 21 Graham Hollister-Short, 2016-09-30 The technical problems confronting different societies and periods and the measures taken to solve them form the concern of this annual collection of essays Volumes contain technical articles ranging widely in subject time and region as well as general papers on the history of technology In addition to dealing with the history of technical discovery and change History of Technology also explores the relations of technology to other aspects of life social cultural and economic and shows how technological development has shaped and been shaped by the society in which it occurred

How Nations Innovate Jingjing Huo, 2015-08-20 How Nations Innovate compares how affluent capitalist economies differ in their patterns of technological innovation Building on the varieties of capitalism literature this book goes beyond the traditional focus on radical versus incremental innovation in existing scholarship and takes the comparison of capitalism to an entirely new set of questions around technological innovation For example which type of capitalism engages in job threatening innovation Whose innovation widens income inequality Whose innovation raises productivity Which type of capitalism has more effective financial markets for innovation Whose innovators emphasize control rather than flexibility during innovation By addressing these questions the author demonstrates that the way nations innovate often has deep and sometimes counter intuitive implications for how they compare in many areas of socio economic performance For example although venture capital is most active in Anglo Saxon economies it seems that venture capital performance in stimulating innovation is also poorest in precisely these countries On the issue of employment the author argues that whilst technological innovation in Anglo Saxon economies creates jobs innovation in European economies destroys jobs Nations also differ in the nature of income inequality driven by innovation While innovation pushes top earners further ahead of median earners in Anglo Saxon economies it drags bottom earners further behind the median in European economies Finally varieties of capitalism also differ in their ability to cope with the volatilities of innovation While Anglo Saxon economies face a trade off between low volatility and high innovation output these two goals seem jointly achievable in European economies

The Diffusion of Information

Technology Ken Guy,Erik Arnold,1995-01-01 World Bank Discussion Paper No 281 This study examines the best practices of eight OECD countries Canada Germany Ireland Japan the Netherlands Sweden the United Kingdom and the United States in designing national policies and programs to accelerate the effective use of information technology in support of industrial competitiveness New technologies in computing communications and multimedia are changing the competitive advantage of industries services and entire economies Enterprises must therefore increase their technological development and education through government assistance The emerging experience is rich and diverse The study draws on the tacit knowledge of the designers and implementors of national policies and programs to establish key rules of thumb for future programs The authors outline broad directions for adapting these practices to the conditions of developing countries
