Summary

This research paper targets over measuring brand social media marketing implications as the holistic concept incorporating the entertainment, interaction, customization, trendiness and word of mouth. The research took place among 845 luxury brand consumers belonging from French, Burberry, Italian and Indian. The goal and the main aim of the research is towards the exploration of the relation among Social Media Marketing (SMM) activities and creation of brand equity as well as behavior of consumer towards brand. This research was conducted via quantitative survey by focusing followers as well as consumers towards prominent luxury brands having some of the most significant investments towards SSM, social media marketing. The main points or arguments of this study illustrate the investigation of the influence of social media marketing efforts over the creation of brand equity and behavior of consumer towards brand. The findings of this research study concluded that SMME influences positive consumer behavior and holistic framework. SMME also have significant positive impact over the equity of brand, awareness of brand as well as image of brand.
