Mid-Century Modernism and the American Body Kristina Wilson,2021-04-13 The first investigation of how race and gender shaped the presentation and marketing of Modernist decor in postwar America In the world of interior design mid century Modernism has left an indelible mark still seen and felt today in countless open concept floor plans and spare geometric furnishings Yet despite our continued fascination we rarely consider how this iconic design sensibility was marketed to the diverse audiences of its era Examining advice manuals advertisements in Life and Ebony furniture art and more Mid Century Modernism and the American Body offers a powerful new look at how codes of race gender and identity influenced and were influenced by Modern design and shaped its presentation to consumers Taking us to the booming suburban landscape of postwar America Kristina Wilson demonstrates that the ideals defined by popular Modernist furnishings were far from neutral or race blind Advertisers offered this aesthetic to White audiences as a solution for keeping dirt and outsiders at bay an approach that reinforced middle class White privilege By contrast media arenas such as Ebony magazine presented African American readers with an image of Modernism as a style of comfort security and social confidence Wilson shows how etiquette and home decorating manuals served to control women by associating them with the domestic sphere and she considers how furniture by George Nelson and Charles and Ray Eames as well as smaller scale decorative accessories empowered some users even while constraining others A striking counter narrative to conventional histories of design Mid Century Modernism and the American Body unveils fresh perspectives on one of the most distinctive movements in American visual culture Machine Art, 1934 Jennifer Jane Marshall,2019-01-23 In 1934 New York's Museum of Modern Art staged a major exhibition of ball bearings airplane propellers pots and pans cocktail tumblers petri dishes protractors and other machine parts and products The exhibition titled Machine Art explored these ordinary objects as works of modern art teaching museumgoers about the nature of beauty and value in the era of mass production Telling the story of this extraordinarily popular but controversial show Jennifer Jane Marshall examines its history and the relationship between the museum's director Alfred H Barr Jr and its curator Philip Johnson who oversaw it She situates the show within the tumultuous climate of the interwar period and the Great Depression considering how these unadorned objects served as a response to timely debates over photography abstract art the end of the American gold standard and John Dewey's insight that how a person experiences things depends on the context in which they are encountered An engaging investigation of interwar American modernism Machine Art 1934 reveals how even simple things can serve as a defense against uncertainty
