Keddell, 1993 Examines how the Japanese government used a series of incremental measures in three different periods to manage conflicting international and domestic pressure over defense issues in the context of the country s military dependence on the US since World War II Details the influence and origins of such constraints as the one percent of GNP ceiling of defense spending various international treaties and the strong public opinion against the military and concludes that domestic political tranquility is more important to the government than military parity with other countries Annotation copyright by Book News Inc Portland OR The Journal of American-East Asian Relations ,2001

The International Politics of the Asia Pacific Michael Yahuda, 2012-12-06 This second edition of Michael Yahuda's extremely successful textbook introduces students to the international politics of the Asia Pacific region since 1945. The new edition is completely updated with contemporary coverage of the economic crises and includes new chapters on the current role of East Asia in world affairs, prospects post 2000, the strengths and weaknesses of US dominance and the challenge of other powers, prospects for and implications of an East Asian economic recovery. Chinese-Japanese Competition and the East Asian Security Complex Jeffrey Reeves, Jeffrey Hornung, Kerry Lynn Nankivell, 2017-07-14 This volume examines contemporary diplomatic, economic and security competition between China and Japan in the Asia Pacific region. The book outlines the role that Sino-Japanese competition plays in East Asian security, an area of study largely overlooked in contemporary writing on Asian security which tends to focus on US-China relations and/or US hegemony in Asia. The volume focuses on Chinese and Japanese foreign policy under President Xi Jinping and Prime Minister Shinz Abe and regional security dynamics within and between Asian states/institutions since 2012. It employs regional security complex theory as a theoretical framework to view Chinese and Japanese competition in the Asian region. In doing so, the volume draws on a levels of analysis approach to demonstrate the value in looking at security in the Asia Pacific from a regional rather than global perspective. The vast majority of existing research on the region's security tends to focus on great power relations and treats Asia as a sub-region within the larger global security architecture. In contrast, this volume shows how competition between the two largest Asian economies shapes East Asia's security environment and drives security priorities across Asia's sub-regions. As such, this collection provides an important contribution to discussion on security in Asia, one with potential to influence both political and military policy makers, security practitioners and scholars. This book will be of much interest to students of Asian politics, regional security, diplomacy and international relations. Asia-Pacific Security Cooperation: National Interests and Regional Order See Seng Tan, 2014-12-18 New developments in the Asia Pacific are forcing regional officials to rethink the way they manage security issues. The contributors to this work explore why some forms of security cooperation and institutionalisation in the region have proven more feasible than others. This work describes the emergence of the professions in late tsarist Russia and their struggle for autonomy from the aristocratic state. It also examines the ways in which the Russian professions both resembled and differed from their Western counterparts.
