Subsequently, the main part of the paper will deal with William Blake and his poem 'Little Black Boy'. The piece will be taken as an example for 18th-century abolitionist literature and will be analysed with the help of secondary literature by Hazard Adams, D. G. Gillham, David Erdman and Lauren Henry. A special focus will be on the poem's religious theme. The term paper will end with a conclusion summarizing the interpretations of the before-mentioned literary scientists and evaluating the significance of the paper's findings.

examines contemporary resistance to technology and places it in a surprising historical context She brilliantly illuminates the rich but oftentimes unrecognized literary and philosophical tradition that has existed for nearly two centuries since the first Luddites the machine breaking followers of the mythical Ned Ludd lifted their sledgehammers in protest against the Industrial Revolution Tracing that current of thought through some of the great minds of the 19th and 20th centuries William Blake Mary Shelley Charles Dickens John Ruskin William Morris Henry David Thoreau Ralph Waldo Emerson Robert Graves Aldo Leopold Rachel Carson and many others Fox demonstrates that modern protests against consumptive lifestyles and misgivings about the relentless march of mechanization are part of a fascinating hidden history She shows as well that the Luddite tradition can yield important insights into how we might reshape both technology and modern life so that human community and environmental values take precedence over the demands of the machine In Against the Machine Nicols Fox writes with compelling immediacy bringing a new dimension and depth to the debate over what technology means both now and for our future
