Cooke, Jr.,2022-10-04 A bold reorientation of art history that bridges the divide between fine art and material culture through an examination of objects and their uses Art history is often viewed through cultural or national lenses that define some works as fine art while relegating others to the category of craft Global Objects points the way to an interconnected history of art examining a broad array of functional aesthetic objects that transcend geographic and temporal boundaries and challenging preconceived ideas about what is and is not art Avoiding traditional binaries such as East versus West and fine art versus decorative art Edward Cooke looks at the production consumption and circulation of objects made from clay fiber wood and nonferrous base metals Carefully considering the materials and process of making and connecting process to product and people he demonstrates how objects act on those who look at use and acquire them He reveals how objects retain aspects of their local fabrication while absorbing additional meanings in subtle and unexpected ways as they move through space and time In emphasizing multiple centers of art production amid constantly changing contexts Cooke moves beyond regional histories driven by geography nation state time period or medium Beautifully illustrated Global Objects traces the social lives of objects from creation to purchase and from use to experienced meaning charting exciting new directions in art history

Appalachian White Oak Basketmaking Rachel Nash Law,Cynthia Wieboldt Taylor,1991 In an era when baskets served as basic containers for gathering transporting and storing goods many settlers in the Central and Southern Appalachian mountain region found white oak the best material for basketmaking This book surveys the varied forms and techniques that evolved as basketmakers selected prepared and wove this wood The authors display special appreciation of white oak basketry as an important dimension of regional material culture Drawing on extensive fieldwork including interviews with traditional basketmakers in the Central Appalachian region Rachel Law and Cynthia Taylor establish a framework for classifying comparing and identifying Appalachian basketry forms In demonstrating how details of basket construction technique and style can be linked to specific makers regions and ethnic traditions the authors have created a resource essential for cultural historians collectors and craftspeople The three major types of white oak baskets rib rod and split are carefully delineated in this study Oak rodwork which previously has received little attention is extensively treated here as a specifically American adaptation of European willow basketmaking For all three major types this volume details construction techniques for numerous variants using copious illustrations and clear explanatory text Windsor-chair Making in Conservation of Furniture Shayne Rivers, Nick Umney, 2007-06-07 This book is a comprehensive resource covering the principles and practice of the conservation and restoration of furniture and other decorative art objects made wholly or partly of wood. It integrates theory with practice to show the principles which govern interaction between wooden objects, the environmental and conservation treatments, and the factors which need to be taken into account to arrive at acceptable solutions to conservation problems. The practical knowledge and experience of a team of conservators active in the field are brought together with theoretical and reference material from diverse sources and unified within a systematic framework. Specialist conservators from related disciplines cover diverse materials often incorporated into furniture.

Decorative Arts and Household Furnishings in America, 1650-1920 Kenneth L. Ames, Gerald W. R. Ward, 1989 This bibliography of the study of household furnishings used in the United States from the seventeenth century to the early twentieth century contains twenty-one sections. Each section begins with an essay that outlines the development of scholarship in the field and points toward new directions for research, with annotated entries on the most significant works. Three chapters present the basic reference tools and surveys of art and architecture. These are followed by chapters devoted to such topics as furniture, metals including silver and gold, pewter and Britannia metal, ceramics and glass, textiles, timepieces, household activities and systems, and craftsmen and the Arts and Crafts Movement in America. Includes an author-title index.
