Who's Who in the Arab World 2007-2008 Publitec

Publications,2011-12-22 Who's Who in the Arab World 2007-2008 compiles information on the most notable individuals in the Arab world. Additionally, the title provides insight into the historical background and the present of this influential and often volatile region. Part I sets out precise biographical details on some 6,000 eminent individuals who influence every sphere of public life in politics, culture, and society. Part II surveys the 19 Arab Countries, providing detailed information on the geography, history, constitution, economy, and culture of the individual countries. Part III provides information on the historical background of the Arab world. Indexes by country and profession supplement the biographical section. A select bibliography of secondary literature on the Middle East is also included.

A History of the Middle East Saul S. Friedman,2014-01-10 As the birthplace of three principal religions, the Middle East is holy to 15 million Jews, 2 billion Christians, and 1 billion Muslims. As the cradle of western civilization, it is fundamental to world history, the place where humans transformed themselves from nomadic hunters to settled farmers capable of building great cities and societies. This detailed history covers the Middle East from its ancient beginnings to the present. The confluence of events that produced civilized society is fully discussed, along with the establishment of Judaism, Christianity, and Islam. The emergence and decline of the Byzantine and Ottoman empires, which laid much of the framework for the region to move into the modern era, is covered in depth. Analysis of the area in recent decades focuses on World War I and II and the regional conflicts that inflame the Middle East of the 21st century.

The Road to New Islam: Mahfouz, Arkoun, Abu Zaid, Kassim, & Other Muslim & Non-Muslim Thinkers Akef R. Abadir PHD.,2021-08-10 The author Akef R. Abadir, born in Tanta, Egypt, was living in Alexandria as the colonial period was drawing to an end in the 1950s and early 1960s. At the time, Alexandria, Egypt, was a multiethnic and cosmopolitan city. The social fabric was composed of an aggregate of Egyptians, Europeans, and other minorities. These different communities and denominations coexisted in relative peace and respect of one another. However, despite what was shared in common, Europeans in general, whether at home or abroad, seemed to be more progressive than most Egyptians. This discrepancy became even more dramatic as one left the urban centers such as Cairo and Alexandria and ventured into rural areas where poverty and illiteracy prevailed. Looking back at life in this Mediterranean city, nothing seemed to point to an answer where religion would be a major factor. In fact, in reaction to a prolonged foreign presence, Egyptian society had been undergoing a gradual cultural change characterized by a return to a more restrictive interpretation and practice of Islam. This observation launched the author Akef Abadir on a long period of exploration and research that led to the writing of this book. Currently, the East-West relationship is experiencing a period of great instability. It has been suggested that the resolution of this conflict requires reaching a political compromise.

based on mutual acceptance and understanding To achieve this goal it is imperative to address the problem of Islamic modernism and examine the context in which it is taking shape From the authors viewpoint what has been written regarding Islamic modernity has not provided a comprehensive overview of the subject This book intends to address this gap and examine the core issues that have confronted Islam starting from the seventh century to the present The objective of this book is not to predict when Islam will modernize but rather to explore the current process of change taking place and the obstacles it is facing The aim is to ultimately promote a constructive dialogue between the Muslim community and the outside world particularly the West

History? Joseph A. Kéchichian, 2016-09-01 At a time of profound regional and international transformations that extend beyond the political Middle Easterners in general and Arabs in particular ponder their future as well as how to best preserve and protect their interests and equally important their cultures As non Arabs interpret and opine about Arab civilization far more than indigenous thinkers how can we understand what motivates scholars and opinion makers and how can Arab analysts highlight indigenous perspectives What are the core factors that separate non Arab scholars from their Arab counterparts Can the perceptions of nearly 500 million individuals be mislabeled so frequently and so easily and what ought to be done to repair the damage already done Do Arab thinkers bear any responsibility for what may appear to be little more than a campaign to denigrate To answer these questions this paper first offers an overview of the dilemmas involved then identifies and analyses two major concerns censorship and translation matters and finally focuses on the case of the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia to test the assertion that books authored by non Arabs many of whom shroud themselves in the cloak of authority but in reality harbor a sharp dislike if not outright hatred of Arabs dominate over works written by Arabs The paper closes with a few recommendations that call on Arab thinkers to overcome existing academic as well as journalistic prejudices

Islam and the West Christopher J Walker, 2005-07-21 We have rapidly grown used to the idea particularly since the declaration of a worldwide war on terrorism that between Islam and the West there exists a deep historical and ideological gulf Christopher J Walker turns such accepted views on their head and paints instead a picture of two belief systems that have a long history of toleration and mutual influence Indeed Islam has given a great deal to civilisation essentially modern notions of free enquiry rational experimentation rational experimentation and the independence of science from religious authority are legacies of the Islamic world Islam and the West is a thought provoking study covering some of the cardinal encounters between Islamic and Western countries Travel and Translation in the Early Modern Period Carmine Di Biase, 2006 The relationship between travel and translation might seem obvious at first but to study it in earnest is to discover that it is at once intriguing and elusive Of course travelers translate in order to make sense of their new surroundings sometimes they must translate in order to put food on the table The relationship between these two human compulsions however goes much deeper than this What gets translated it seems is not merely the written or the spoken word but the very identity of the traveler These seventeen essays which treat not only such well known figures as Martin Luther Erasmus Shakespeare and Milton but also such lesser known figures as Konrad Grunenberg Leo Africanus and Garcilaso de la Vega constitute the first survey of how this relationship manifests itself in the early modern period
