Making Of Geography:

The Making of Geography Robert Eric Dickinson, Osbert John Radcliffe Howarth, 1976 Research and Debate in Primary Geography Simon Catling, 2017-10-02 This book brings together recent papers which make important contributions to understanding and developing primary geography. It considers primary teachers and trainee teachers' knowledge of geography, how the primary curriculum uses geography, teachers' planning of geography teaching, the way in which aspects of geography are taught, what high quality geography might look like, and children's geographical understanding and voices. Though geography curricula change quite often in countries around the world, the core matters noted above remain of constant and vital importance. The papers in this book either concern research with primary teachers and children or consider key concerns in primary geography, providing important perspectives for thinking about future developments in geography teaching and curriculum initiatives in primary schools. This is a stimulating and enticing collection written by leading exponents of and experts in primary geography education. This book was originally published as a special issue of Education 3:13. The Making of Geography Robert E. Soja, 1989 Written by one of America's foremost geographers, Postmodern Geographies contests the tendency still dominant in most social science to reduce human geography to a reflective mirror or, as Marx called it, an unnecessary complication. Beginning with a powerful critique of historicism and its constraining effects on the geographical imagination, Edward Soja builds on the work of Foucault, Berger, Giddens, Berman, Jameson, and above all, Henri Lefebvre, to argue for a historical and geographical materialism, a radical rethinking of the dialectics of space, time, and social being. Soja charts the respatialization of social theory from the still unfolding encounter between Western Marxism and modern geography through the current debates on the emergence of a postfordist regime of flexible accumulation. The postmodern geography of Los Angeles, exposed in a provocative pair of essays, serves as a model in his account of the contemporary struggle for control over the social production of space. Bulletin
