Making People Friendly Towns Improving The Public Environment In Towns And Cities

Patricia Aelbrecht, Quentin Stevens

Making People Friendly Towns Improving The Public Environment In Towns And Cities:

Making People-friendly Towns Francis Tibbalds, 1992 Considers the design maintenance and management of towns and cities particularly the central areas with a view to establishing what makes a successful and enjoyable public environment The author blends practical guidelines with text and original drawings

Making People-Friendly Towns Francis Tibbalds, 2012-09-10 Making People Friendly Towns explores the way our towns and cities particularly their central areas look and feel to all their users and discusses their design maintenance and management Francis Tibbalds provides a new philosophical approach to the problem suggesting that places as a whole matter much more than the individual components that make up the urban environment such as buildings roads and parks This informative book suggests the way forward for professionals decision makers and all those who care about the future of our urban environment and points the reader in the direction of a wealth of living examples of successful town planning

Developing Age-Friendly Communities in the UK Stephen J. Page, Joanne Connell, 2022-12-23 The ageing population is a global societal issue Policymakers planners and the public third and private sectors must rethink how the built environment and services are delivered to meet the needs of a changing demographic This is the first book to systematically review the evolution development and progress of age friendly thinking in the UK with a primary focus on the real world experiences of the people leading place based initiatives The book presents the findings of the first in depth national study of age friendly programme leaders in the UK completed in 2021 and provides insights into the development of age friendly communities the formative influences from a social policy perspective the management challenges and the progress towards achieving age friendly goals Using primary interview data and narrative analysis the experiences of working with age friendly programmes in different organisational forms are explored The book promotes a greater understanding of what it means to become an age friendly community in practice how the programmes have different development pathways and what influences different outcomes Embellished with detailed narratives from practitioners informative tables and diagrams and figures throughout the book carefully gathers the voices of a diverse range of decision makers and leaders associated with the age friendly movement and provides unique insights on the drivers of change in specific localities This is a must read for anyone involved in ageing research or ageing policy and practice as it provides an insightful look into the real world of embedding this community development model in different localities to make a difference to the lives of older people Topical themes include how these agendas connect with other issues such as dementia friendly programmes and the work of the third sector as well as the growing challenge of what it means to be friendly as a community and place and whether friendly is becoming an over used term in relation to place identity The book has national and global interest for all communities engaged in age friendly activity offering exemplars of best practice achievements in transforming local communities and views on the meaning of ageing as well as the age friendly lens as an approach that champions the world through the eyes of older people It offers a thought provoking read for anyone with an interest in this expanding area of ageing irrespective of disciplinary focus

Transformation of Cities in Central and Eastern Europe F. E. Ian Hamilton, Kaliopa Dimitrovska Andrews, Nataša Pichler-Milanović, 2005 Annotation This volume is one in a series initiated by the United Nations University Institute of Advanced Studies on the inter relationship between globalisation and urban transformation It identifies and describes the inter and intra urban transformations of Central and Eastern European cities and considers their pre 1945 historic legacies the socialist period and their contemporary transition towards market oriented and democratic systems The dramatic changes since 1989 including the collapse of Communist ideology the break up of the Soviet Union Czechoslovakia and Yugoslavia the end of the Cold War and the impact of globalisation and European integration have reconfigured this region and affected their re integration into European and global networks This book first examines the similarities and differences between significant Central and Eastern European cities comparing the differing patterns of historical context and socialist legacies before 1990 and the impacts of internal and external forces on re shaping these cities and their paths of transformation since 1990 It also examines the role of contemporary planning within the overall development of Central and Eastern European cities The conclusion demonstrates the similarities and differences between Central and Eastern European cities and their re integration into global networks

Toward an Integrative Theory of Urban Design Hossein Bahraïny, Ameneh Bakhtiar, 2016-05-13 This book takes a bold epistemological approach to address the fundamental questions that urban design has faced since its inception questions concerning its legitimacy definition nature content purpose theory methods jurisdiction and above all its knowledge base The appropriate level of urban design global or local is another critical and emerging question discussed At the end an integrative theory of urban design is introduced on the basis of which a set of principles is developed for application by practicing urban designers These principles are presented at three essential levels general global and local Iranian Toward an Integrative Theory of Urban Design is intended to dispel many of the ambiguities still troubling urban design as a discipline and profession and Social Cohesion Patricia Aelbrecht, Quentin Stevens, 2019-01-22 Social cohesion is often perceived as being under threat from the increasing cultural and economic differences in contemporary cities and the increasing intensity of urban life. Public space in its role as the main stage for social interactions between strangers clearly plays a role in facilitating or limiting opportunities for social cohesion. But what exactly is social cohesion? how is it experienced in the public realm and what role can the design of city spaces have in supporting or promoting it? There are significant knowledge gaps between the social sciences and design disciplines and between academia and practice and thus a dispersed knowledge base that currently lacks nuanced insight into how urban design contributes to social integration or segregation. This book brings together scholarly knowledge at the intersection of public space design and social cohesion. It is based on original scholarly research and a depth of urban design practice and analyses case studies from a variety of cities and cultures across the Global North and Global South. Its interdisciplinary cross cultural analysis will be of interest to academics, students, policymakers and practitioners engaged with a range of subject areas including urban design, urban planning, architecture, landscape, cultural studies, human geography, social policy, sociology and anthropology. It will also have significant appeal to a wider non academic readership given its topical subject matter.

Housing Design Quality Matthew Carmona, 2002-01-04 This book directly addresses the major planning debate of our time: the delivery and quality of new housing development. As pressure for new housing development in England increases, a widespread desire to improve the design of the resulting residential environments becomes evermore apparent with increasing condemnation of the standard products of the volume housebuilders. In recent years, central government has come to accept the need to deliver higher quality living environments and the important role of the planning system in helping to raise design standards. Housing Design Quality focuses on this role and in particular on how the various policy instruments available to public authorities can be used in a positive manner to deliver higher quality residential developments.

Managing Environments for Leisure and Recreation Richard Broadhurst, 2002-09-26 This book seeks to bring together the different strands of thought that inform the management of settings for leisure and recreation. It is highly illustrated with over 50 line drawings and includes many case studies from around the world.
