Glasman, David Nevo, 1988-06-30 This book is about the practice of decision making by school principals and about ways to improve this practice by capitalizing on evaluation dimensions Much has been written on decision making but surprisingly little on decision making in the school principalship Much has been also written on evaluation as well as on evaluation and decision making but not much has been written on evaluation in decision making especially decision making in the principalship This book presents two messages One is that decision making in the principalship can be studied and improved and not only talked about in abstract terms The other message is that evaluation can contribute to the understanding of decision making in the principalship and to the improvement of its practice In this book we call for the conception of an evaluation minded principal a principal who has a wide perspective on the nature of evaluation and its potential benefits a principal who is also inclined to use evaluation perceptions and techniques as part of his her decision making process This book was conceived in 1985 with the idea to combine thoughts about educational administration with thoughts about educational evaluation Studies of decision making in the principalship had already been on their way We decided to await the findings and in the meantime we wrote a first conceptual version of evaluation in decision making As the studies were completed we wrote a first empirical version of same

Making Teachers Better, Not Bitter Tony Frontier, Paul Mielke, 2016-08-23 In too many districts evaluation of teachers ensures competence but does little or nothing to encourage and support expertise In this thought provoking and groundbreaking book Tony Frontier and Paul Mielke address this issue head on combining the conceptual and the practical by offering a compelling vision of teacher growth along with nearly three dozen step by step protocols for working with teachers They present a powerful rationale for reconceptualizing teacher evaluation by creating a balanced system of three equally important components Reliable and valid evaluation Empowering and focused supervision Meaningful and purposeful reflection Each component is discussed in terms of its purpose premise processes practices and payoffs Revealing examples based on the authors experiences in classrooms across the country show what evaluation supervision and reflection look like when they re not done well and what they could look like if done more effectively Providing insight and inspiration Making Teachers Better Not Bitter paves a clear path to better teaching and helps you acknowledge and support the hard work that teachers do every day to make learning come alive for their students

Davies,Brenton Doecke,Philip Mead,Wayne Sawyer,Lyn Yates,2022-09-29 At a time when knowledge is being re valued as central to curriculum concerns subject English is being called to account Literary Knowing and the Making of English Teachers puts long standing debates about knowledge and knowing in English in dialogue with an investigation of how English teachers are made in the 21st century This book explores for the first time the role of literature in shaping English teachers professional knowledge and identities by examining the impacts in particular of their own school teaching in their making The voices of early career English teachers feature throughout the work in a series of vignettes providing reflective accounts of their professional learning The authors bring a range of disciplinary expertise and standpoints to explore the complexity of knowledge and knowing in English They ask How do English teachers negotiate competing curriculum demands How do they understand literary knowledge in a neoliberal context What is core English knowledge for students and what role should literature play in the contemporary curriculum Drawing on a major longitudinal research project they bring to light what English teachers see as central to their work the ways they connect teaching with their disciplinary training and how their understandings of literary practice are contested and reimagined in the classroom This innovative

Division of Vocational Education, Teachers at Their Best Rich Waters,2018-04-03 The purpose of this book is to change the conversation about teacher induction preparation and development and how we create effective teachers Our national discussion about how to create effective teachers needs to move away from how higher education can do a better job preparing our teachers and move toward how our local schools can do a better job inducting preparing and developing our teachers over a full career There are two interconnected and irrefutable reasons for this First school culture supersedes all rational strategies for teacher development and second teachers learn to teach in the schools where they work not in higher education or any of the alternative routes which the ineffectiveness of higher education teacher preparation have caused to emerge With the affirmation of these postulates this book clarifies that teachers are at their best when they are working together in collaborative cultures where teacher thinking and decision making lead schools in continuous improvement and change Elaborating on the importance of these best conditions for optimal teacher development this book will insist that it is the entirety of a school culture that produces effective teachers and schools with authentic learning communities produce the cultures that produce effective teachers Proceedings of the New York State Teachers Association ...
