Marcus A Child In Roman Provence:

Marcus Jean Hennegé, 1996 The son of a mosaicist from Rome Marcus accompanies his father on a visit to Provence where his father is commissioned to do a series of mosaics for the domus of a client in Vaison la Romaine While there they visit the theatre at Orange les Antiques then in fine repair at Glanum bathe below the Pont du Gard and attend a gladiatorial combat at Nîmes before departing from Narbonne Who's who in the Roman World John Hazel, 2002 A wide ranging bibliographical survey of one of the greatest civilizations in history This is an authoritative and hugely enjoyable guide to figures from all walks of Roman life from Emperors to generals from politicians to thieves The Roman Province of Gallia Narbonensis Philip Kay-Bujak, 2025-01-30 According to Pliny admittedly a native of the province Gallia Narbonensis was by the cultivation of its soil the manners and civilization of its inhabitants and the extent of its wealth surpassed by no other province in the Empire Philip Kay Bujak describes how this vital area came to be occupied and incorporated into Rome's domains and how it was then governed Straddling important roads connecting Rome with Spain northern Gaul and the Channel ports the province grew into an agricultural and economic powerhouse Containing some of the finest examples of Roman cities such as Narbonne and Lyon it was among the most sought after postings for Roman officials However this strategic positioning also made it the battlefield for numerous foreign invasions and civil wars and we follow the region's fluctuating fortunes through several centuries of drama Drawing on extensive research and many personal visits to the area Philip Kay Bujak brings us a fascinating story of this particular region Moreover it also serves as an excellent case study in the evolving methods challenges and impacts of imperial governance across the Roman world Part historical study part travel guide it explores the legacy the Roman Empire bequeathed to this beautiful region Continuity and Rupture in Roman Mediterranean Gaul Benjamin P. Luley, 2020-09-16 With the decline in popularity of the term Romanization as a way of analyzing the changes in the archaeological record visible throughout the conquered provinces of the Roman Empire scholars have increasingly turned to the important concept of identity to understand the experiences of local peoples living under Roman rule Studies of identity in the Roman Empire have thus emphasized how local peoples rather than simply passively copying Roman culture actively created and recreated complex and multi faceted identities that incorporated local traditions within the increasingly connected and globalized world of the empire How did the violent nature of Roman rule in the provinces impact local communities and the ways in which individuals interacted with one another This book provides a detailed study of the ways in which the Celtic speaking peoples of the ancient settlement of Lattara in Roman Mediterranean Gaul fashioned their lives under two centuries of Roman rule and in particular the ways in which the creation of these lived experiences was entangled in the larger processes of Roman colonialism The important archaeological settlement and port of Lattara located today in modern Lattes in Mediterranean France was occupied from ca 500 BCE to 200 CE and has been the focus of extensive excavations by international teams of archaeologists for over 35 years The author seeks to understand the ways in which the daily lives of the inhabitants of Lattara were shaped and constrained by the particular historical circumstances of Roman rule involving the violent conquest of the province between 125 121 BCE the pacification of numerous revolts in the in the first half of the first century BCE and the imposition of an oppressive system of taxation land redistribution and grain levies Through a detailed analysis of the large corpus of archaeological evidence dating from ca 200 BCE to 200 CE at Lattara the author argues that the violent establishment of Roman rule in Mediterranean Gaul engendered very different forms of social relationships and interactions that structured the community during the late first century BCE and onward This involved a new organization of domestic space and living arrangements new relationships structuring the production and exchange of material goods different relationships between the community and the wider spiritual world and new strategies for acquiring political influence and power based upon the increasing importance of material wealth All of this occurred by the very end of the first century BCE despite the continued persistence of many aspects of local identity particularly evident in religious practices Furthermore these new social relationships were arguably paramount in the daily practices of reproducing Roman rule at Lattara and in the larger province of Mediterranean Gaul more generally practices that were in particular rooted in an ever increasing socio economic hierarchy translations are introduced by a series of masterly studies that tell the story of the origins function and legacy of Polemon's work a legacy especially rich in Islam The story of the Physiognomy is the story of how one man's obsession with identifying enemies came to be taken up in the fascinating transmission of Greek thought into Arabic Outlines of Universal History
