Excavations at Cill Donnain Mike Parker Pearson, Marek Zvelebil, 2014-06-30 The SEARCH Sheffield Environmental and Archaeological Research Campaign in the Hebrides project began in 1987 and covers the Scotland s Outer Hebrides The aim of the project is to investigate how human societies adapted in the long term to the isolated environment of the Outer Hebrides The first major excavation on South Uist discovered that what was thought to be a shell midden at Cill Donnain was in fact a wheelhouse a type of dwelling used in the period c 300 BC AD 500 under which lay the remains of a Bronze Age settlement This settlement was partly investigated by Marik Zvelebil in 1991 and then later by Mike Parker Pearson and Kate MacDonald in 2003 The site itself is situated at the foot of a high steep sided dune on the eastern edge of a large sand valley close to the western shore of Loch Cill Donnain The archaeological report of the excavation at the Cill Donnain wheelhouse shows that in comparison with contemporary neighbouring settlements it was unlikely that each was an independent unit and that they were linked by social and economic inter dependency The wheelhouse thus provides striking new evidence that contributes to developing theories about the social material and economic life in the period This volume presents the extensive archaeological evidence found at the site including pottery faunal remains and a variety of bone and metal tools illustrating that the Cill Donnain landscape is rich in archaeological sites of all periods from the Beaker to the post Medieval

Evolution of Animals Achim Paululat, Günter Purschke, 2025-08-23 Over the course of evolution multicellular animals Metazoa have successfully colonized every conceivable habitat on our planet thanks to their ability to survive and adapt under adverse or changing conditions But how is an animal's body structured to accomplish this What organs do animals have how do they perceive their environment and what is the evolutionary relationship between these seemingly so different organisms This volume designed as a modern practical book presents the most important body plans of selected animals It is intended to help all Biology students to recognize and understand the basic body shapes and structures in the respective animal groups including the main features that have contributed to their evolutionary success the similarities and differences and the many different solutions that evolution has come up with for given biological problems The authors have consistently used focused compact text and photographs that not only show the animals most important external features but also explain the dissection process step by step The authors hope that this new book will help all Biology students successfully complete their practical zoology course and gain new insights into the morphology and evolution of animals
