DESIGN APPROACH

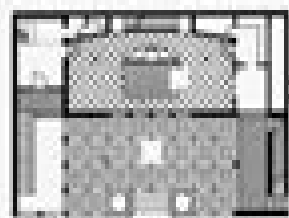

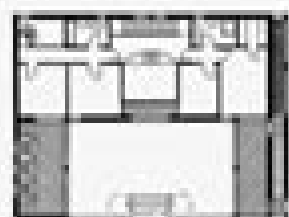

As time passes, every architectural project becomes part of daily life and, eventually, of history, allowing a glimpse of lost chances and forgotten opportunities. It is necessary only to search among these traces, to turn back and look again at the past for new perspectives to suddenly appear before us. We examine the past to find confirmation of our own preferences, in order to reconstruct our own present through the plans and drawings into which the history of architecture is fragmented. We have chosen to immerse ourselves in the work of transformation, or rather, revision, of modern traditions. Structural innovations, rigorous constructiveness, the search for a simplification and reduction of language, and the insistence on constants and on the specific are constants in our work. We have been influenced by Giuseppe Terragni and, generally speaking, Italian Rationalism.

Table glasses throughout a modern new Lugano, Switzerland, designed by architects Mario Campi (left) and Franco Pessina (right). 1977. Built in the Marmirolo estate and based on modern Italy and the Tugendhat house of Switzerland, the house combines two distinctly different patterns: classical with a sense of architectural history. Rising on a sloping site, the T-shaped residence harmonizes a constant and specific sense of logic of Lugano.

1977. Thick line of the master stair's entrance as the one that up the top of our wing, connects with the dining gallery. The arrival also provides views of the lake and courtyard below.

1977. A good interior glass picture gallery from the first floor entrance to the guest suite. The ceiling reveals a light vault that appears throughout the residence, while the oak floor highlights the remarkable glass. 1977/78. The floor and wooden floor glass show the house's organization into a glass-walled, straight and curved spaces.

OFFICE INFORMATION

In our office of sixteen people there are six architects. We accept as many residential projects as are proposed and oversee each one personally. Our fees are based on a tariff established by the Swiss Society of Engineers and Architects.

INTERIORS

We occasionally design the interior ourselves.

BACKGROUND

Mario Campi graduated from the Federal Institute of Technology in Zurich, where he recently served as dean of the architecture department. He started his own firm in 1962 with Franco Pessina, who studied at the drafting school in Bellinzona, Switzerland. Campi and Pessina have designed numerous residences around Lugano, Switzerland, and are currently at work on the IBM headquarters in Zurich and a municipal housing project in Lugano.

Afbeeldingen van het werk van twee Zwitserse architecten door henzelf toegelicht Mario Campi Franco Pessina Kristin Feireiss, 1994-11-29 Campi and Pessina architects from the canton Ticino in Switzerland attained international fame through their villas constructed in Tessin in the spirit of rationalist architecture They also first achieved renown through their conversion of Castello Montebello into a museum with a language of form that reveals their highly sensitive and original treatment of historical architectural works This book focuses on the following central topics modern handling of historical works of architecture residential dwellings from the villa to publicly assisted housing as well as public buildings and urban design projects This publication represents the first comprehensive compilation on the complete works produced by Campi and Pessina over a period of more than thirty years This book is richly illustrated and includes a complete list of the architects projects Texts examining the work of these architects are written by Werner Oechslin Fred Koetter Paolo Fumagalli and Wolfgang B hm Buildings and projects Mario Campi, Franco Pessina, 1994 Overzicht van het werk van de Zwitserse architecten Mario Campi geb 1936 en Franco Pessina geb 1933 Mario Campi Mario Campi, 2002 After graduating from the Swiss Federal Institute of Technology ETH Zurich Mario Campi opened his own architecture office in Lugano in 1962 From 1977 to 1984 he was heavily involved with teaching activities at several American universities including Cornell and Harvard then after returning to Zurich he became Professor for Architecture at the ETH Zurich in 1985 Campi s buildings are stark in form and elegantly composed characterised by their concentration on the structural essentials devoid of superfluity Although his buildings are functional and very much of today they also evoke a sense of serenity reminiscent of classical architecture In this respect Campi is one of the major exponents of Italian rationalism This monograph presents Campi s recent buildings and projects highlighting his analytical approach The projects featured include residential buildings in Lugano and the recently completed buildings for the chemistry faculty at the ETH Zurich

Pulsation in Architecture Eric Goldemberg, 2012 Pulsation in Architecture highlights the role of digital design as the catalyst for a new spatial sensibility related to rhythmic perception It proposes a novel critical reception of computational architecture based on the ability of digital design to move beyond mere instrumentality and to engage with core aspects of the discipline the generative engine of digital architecture reinvigorates a discourse of part to whole relationships through the lens of rhythmic affect There is a paradigm shift in spatial perception due to the intense use of computational techniques and the capacity to morph massive amounts of data in spatial patterns rhythm plays a pivotal role in the articulation of the topology of buildings generating the atmospheric character that induces moods and throbbing sensations in space Pulsation introduces the fundamental animate capacity of living form and reshapes our perception of architectural space across the multiple scales of a project from digital inception to fabrication An emerging thread of rhythmic sensibility loosely binds a

Computational Intelligence, III G. Valle,F. Gardin,N. Cercone,1991-07-01 In recent years AI has been experiencing a deep internal debate on the appropriateness of the symbolic based paradigm and all of its consequences While various symbolic representation schemes as well as their integration have been proposed their limitations have continuously pushed researchers for improved versions or entirely new ones New viewpoints such as the complex dynamic based approach with neural nets can be regarded simply as new problem solving techniques with specific properties Under this perspective what seems to be important is the ability to combine heterogeneous representation and problem solving techniques Research on heterogeneous intelligent systems goes hand in hand with research on specific problem solving methods and paradigms therefore representing their conceptual and practical glueing element The papers contained in this proceedings are just one instance of such awareness activity in the international scientific community
