Excerpt from Marion Fay Vol 2 of 2 A Novel Mr Greenwood was still anxious as to the health of the Rector of Appleslocombe There might be even yet a hope for him but his chance he thought would be better with the present Marquis ill disposed towards him as the Marquis was than with the heir The Marquis was weary of him and anxious to get rid of him was acting very meanly to him as Mr Greenwood thought having offered him 1000 as a final payment for a whole life s attention The Marquis who had ever been a liberal man had now perhaps on his death bed become unjust harsh and cruel But he was weak and forgetful and might possibly be willing to save his money and get rid of the nuisance of the whole affair by surrendering the living This was Mr Greenwood s reading of the circumstances as they at present existed But the Marquis could not dispose of the living while the Rector was still alive nor could he even promise it to any good effect without his son s assent About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works Marion Fay 2 Trollope A.,2019 Anthony Trollope 1815 1882 was an English novelist of the Victorian era Among his best known works is a series of novels collectively known as the Chronicles of Barsetshire which
