Marketing of Watsan Services Sam M. Kayaga, 1997-01-15 Water supply and sanitation projects do not always receive their anticipated effectiveness efficiency or sustainability A major reason for failure often lies not with the technology but with the institutions that are responsible for implementing and maintaining these public health services WEDC institutional development publications are intended to explore the issues relating to institutional development finance and social marketing and make available to a wider audience the results of our case studies MSc theses research and consultancy projects Water and Urban Development Paradigms Jan Feyen, Kelly Shannon, Matthew Neville, 2008-09-03

Communication across and integration of disciplines in the urban water sector seems today more imperative than ever before Water is a strategic and shrinking resource It is probably the world's most valuable resource and clean water has even been touted as the next oil Control of water from access to management has always been a Water and Wastewater

Management in the Tropics Jens Lonholdt, 2005-05-31 Water and Wastewater Management in the Tropics provides the necessary conceptual framework and tools to assess all appropriate aspects of water and sanitation projects in developing countries Using the lessons learned from courses taught at the Technical University of Denmark Water and Wastewater Management in the Tropics is the concerted effort of a broad team including hard core engineers and practitioners as well as soft core environmental and institutional planners and economists with contributions from renowned researchers as well as seasoned project managers The first part of the book aims to give a basic understanding of international projects and addresses how to identify formulate select organise cost finance implement and manage water and wastewater management projects in developing countries Later chapters focus on three different types of water and wastewater management projects in a tropical context rural water and sanitation urban water and wastewater management and industrial water and wastewater management Water and Wastewater Management in the Tropics will appeal to graduate environmental engineering students but also to practitioners economists sociologists and institutional planners working with water and sanitation projects in developing countries Water, Democracy and Neoliberalism in India Vicky Walters, 2013-05-29

Since the early 1990s the achievement of good governance has been a dominant discourse in the pursuit of social and economic development This book presents a critical challenge to the contemporary development paradigm of good governance Based on original ethnographic fieldwork on urban water governance reforms in south India Karnataka the book examines the two propositions that underlie the current good governance debate The first refers to a claim that good governance is both democratic and pro market The second to the claim that commercially oriented water services whether private or public are good for poor and marginalised citizens The book analyses these propositions as they intersect on three levels policy practice process and outcome It argues that a number of tensions and contradictions exist within and between what the discourse promises the everyday practises of how good governance policies are implemented and in the outcomes of such It reveals the networks of power and the complexity of local reforms and their relation to global discourses as well as the motivations and every day practises of those who currently possess the power to reform The book is of interest to academics in the fields of Development Studies Asian Studies and Comparative Politics Willingness-to-pay Surveys ,

Peri-urban Water and Sanitation Services Mathew Kurian,Patricia McCarney,2010-08-17 More than 2 6 billion people in the developing world lack access to safe water and sanitation service The Millennium Development Goal s MDG target is to halve the number of people without access to a sustainable source of water supply and connection to a sewer network by 2015 That target is unlikely to be met If there is anything that can be learnt from European experience it is that institutional reform occurs incrementally when politically enfranchised urban populations perceive a threat to their material well being due to contamination of water sources Improved water and land management in the Ethiopian highlands: its impact on downstream stakeholders dependent on the Blue Nile. Intermediate Results Dissemination Workshop held at the International Livestock Research Institute (ILRI), Addis Ababa, Ethiopia, 5-6 February 2009. Awulachew, Seleshi Bekele,Erkossa, Teklu,Smakhtin, Vladimir,Fernando, Ashra,2009-11-24 This proceeding provides the papers and discussion results of a two day workshop that was organized at International Water Management Institute IWMI office in Addis Ababa during the period of February 6 8 2009 in relation to CPWF Project 19 Improved water and land management in the Ethiopian Highlands and its impact on downstream stakeholders dependent on the Blue Nile Short title Upstream Downstream USDS in the Nile The project is being under implementation during the last one and half years in partnership with various institutions that include International Livestock Research Institute Cornell University Omdurman Islamic University UNESCO Chair in Water Resources Addis Ababa University Bahir Dar University Amhara Regional Agricultural Research Institute and Forum for Social Studies The main aims of the workshop had been Bring together key stakeholders relevant to the project Present debate and validate the intermediate results of the project Disseminate key results to wider audiences through workshop participating stakeholders Follow up on the progress of the project and plan remaining tasks of the project The workshop focus themes were General characterization of the Blue Nile Basin Watershed modeling and analysis Water demand and allocation modeling and simulation Policy and institutions of the water management in the Blue Nile basin The Business of Water and Sustainable Development Jonathan Chenoweth,Juliet Bird,2018-05-08 This title examines the role of privatization technology and multi sectoral partnerships to provide answers to one of the most pressing environmental and social problems of the twenty first century how to provide access to safe drinking water and adequate sanitation for some 2 billion of the world s poor in the next 15 years Ecosystems and Integrated Water Resources Management in South Asia E. R. N. Gunawardena,Brij Gopal,Hemesiri Kotagama,2020-11-29 This book provides an ecosystem perspective in addressing the water resource management issues in the South Asian region It argues that aspects such as sources of water its distribution and users land water interrelations drivers of change such as laws policies and institutions management of issues and technologies related to water supply institutional set up economic instruments such as pricing taxes subsidies and economics of ecosystem services are crucial Climate changes melting of glaciers and polar ice caps rising sea level and the increased frequency of extreme events have to be factored into integrated management of water resources This book addresses some of these major issues related to aquatic ecosystems and focuses on three major aspects a concepts related to ecosystems ecosystem services and their linkages with water b human impacts on ecosystems particularly the aquatic ecosystems and their assessment and c the management including policy governance and economics Comprising new theories research and case studies the book will be useful those concerned with water resource management professionals students and researchers

Routledge Handbook of Water Law and Policy Alistair Rieu-Clarke, Andrew Allan, Sarah Hendry, 2017-02-24 Water plays a key role in addressing the most pressing global challenges of our time including climate change adaptation food and energy security environmental sustainability and the promotion of peace and stability This comprehensive handbook explores the pivotal place of law and policy in efforts to ensure that water enables positive responses to these challenges and provides a basis for sound governance The book reveals that significant progress has been made in recent decades to strengthen the governance of water resource management at different scales including helping to address international and sub national conflicts over transboundary water resources It demonstrates that effective laws and policies are fundamental drivers for the safe equitable and sustainable utilization of water However it is also shown that what might constitute an effective law or policy related to water resources management is still hotly debated As such the handbook provides an important and definitive reference text for all studying water governance and management

The Political Economy of Microfinance Philip Mader, 2016-01-12 According to the author rather than alleviating poverty microfinance financialises poverty By indebting poor people in the Global South it drives financial expansion and opens new lands of opportunity for the crisis ridden global capital markets This book raises fundamental concerns about this widely celebrated tool for social development

Regulating Water and Sanitation for the Poor Richard Franceys, Esther Gerlach, 2012-05-04 The aim of this book is to present the potential benefits as well as the challenges of introducing a more formal economic regulatory process into the urban water sector arena in lower income countries There is a particular focus upon the impact this may have on the poorest the informal slum and shanty dwellers of the rapidly growing cities Economic regulation usually introduced in the context of private operation of monopoly water supply can deliver objectivity and transparency in the price setting process for public as well as private providers The book describes and analyses these issues through a consideration of ten country case studies As a starting point the current situation for the provision of water and sanitation services for the poorest through non regulated public providers in India and Uganda is reviewed Comparative chapters are then presented on Ghana Philippines Bolivia Jordan Zambia and Indonesia all with varying degrees of private sector involvement and regulation Finally the experiences of two richer countries are considered Chile and England countries with the longest experience of economic regulation and the most privatized suppliers In all cases there is a focus on the very necessary role of customer involvement in price setting and service monitoring and on the role of alternative private service providers

Environmental Health Engineering in the Tropics Sandy Cairncross, Sir Richard Feachem, 2018-11-12 This fully updated third edition of the classic text widely cited as the most important and useful book for health engineering and disease prevention describes infectious diseases in tropical and developing countries and the effective measures that may be used against them The infections described include the diarrhoeal diseases the common gut worms Guinea worm schistosomiasis malaria Bancroftian filariasis and other mosquito borne infections The environmental interventions that receive most attention are domestic water supplies and improved excreta disposal Appropriate technology for these interventions and also their impact on infectious diseases are documented in detail This third edition includes new sections on arsenic in groundwater supplies and arsenic removal technologies and new material in most chapters including water supplies in developing countries and surface water drainage

Focusing Partnerships Janelle Plummer, 2013-05-13 Despite the increasing occurrence of policies aimed at mobilising the financial and human resources of the private sector most urban local governments responsible for urban basic services in the South do not have the capacity to initiate and sustain partnerships Nor do they understand how they can create partnerships that target the poor This sourcebook provides practical information and guidance to do so With extensive illustrative material from Africa Asia and Latin America it sets out a strategic framework for building municipal capacity to create pro poor partnerships It focuses on implementation rather than policy It locates private sector participation within the broader urban governance and poverty reduction agenda And it is above all concerned to supply information on the issues and processes involved in making the public private partnership PPP approach appropriate for service delivery in developing countries The second in a series of capacity building sourcebooks it will be invaluable for those concerned with the capacity of local levels of government policy makers municipal authorities development agencies and practitioners and all those involved in urban governance and poverty reduction

OECD Studies on Water Making Blended Finance Work for Water and Sanitation Unlocking Commercial Finance for SDG 6 OECD, 2019-08-26 Investments in water and sanitation are a prerequisite to deliver on the Sustainable Development Goals SDGs in particular on SDG 6 ensuring availability and sustainable management of water and sanitation for all Blended finance can play an important role in strategically investing development finance to mobilise additional commercial finance needed to fill the current investment gaps Thus far however blended finance has not reached scale in the water and sanitation sector A greater evidence base is needed to better understand the current applications as well as the potential of blended models in the water and sanitation sector This publication takes a commercial investment perspective and provides insights into three subsectors 1 water and sanitation utilities 2 small scale off grid sanitation and 3 multi purpose water infrastructure and landscape based approaches The publication draws out recommendations for policy makers and practitioners to apply and scale innovative blended finance approaches where most appropriate

Critical Reflections on Public Private Partnerships Jasmine Gideon, Elaine Unterhalter, 2020-12-21 This book argues that despite the hype within many policy circles there is actually very little evidence to support the presumed benefits of Public Private Partnerships PPPs in reducing poverty and addressing inequalities in the provision of and access to public services Taking a cross sectoral comparative approach this book investigates how PPPs have played out in practice and what the implications have been for inequalities Drawing on a range of empirical case studies in education healthcare housing and water the book picks apart the roles of PPPs as financing mechanisms in several international and national contexts and considers the similarities and differences between sectors The global COVID 19 pandemic has raised significant questions about the future of social provision and through its analysis of the emergence and expansion of the role of PPPs the book also makes a vital contribution to current discussion over this rapidly changing landscape Overall this wide ranging guide to understanding and evaluating the role of PPPs in the Global South will be useful to researchers within development international relations economics and related fields as well as to policy makers and practitioners working in development related policy

Water: All That

Matters Paul L Younger, 2012-11-30 The world's population is increasing but its supply of water is not. Empires have grown and declined due to discovery and exhaustion of their water sources and now the West is at last catching on to the fact that abundance of water can no longer be taken for granted. For the last fifty years wars have been fought over oil; for the next fifty they may be fought over water. In fact, some local wars already have been. Remarkably, this new book is the first to bring together the ecological, geographical, political and scientific aspects of water. Its author, Professor Paul Younger, is one of the UK's leading experts on water, a substance of which we consume 150 litres a day and in its bottled form are willing to pay more for than for petrol.
