Abraham's Dice Karl Giberson, 2016 Most of us believe everything happens for a reason Whether it is God's will karma or fate we want to believe that nothing in the world especially disasters and tragedies is a random meaningless event But now as never before confident scientific assertions that the world embodies a profound contingency are challenging theological claims that God acts providentially in the world The random and meandering path of evolution is widely used as an argument that God did not create life Abraham's Dice explores the interplay between chance and providence in the monotheistic religious traditions looking at how their interaction has been conceptualized as our understanding of the workings of nature has changed This lively historical conversation has generated intense ongoing theological debates and provocative responses from science what are we to make of the history of our universe where chance and law have played out in complex ways Or the evolution of life where random mutations have challenged attempts to find purpose within evolution and convinced many that human beings are but a glorious accident The enduring belief that everything happens for a reason is examined through a conversation with major scholars among them holders of prestigious chairs at Oxford and Cambridge Universities and the University of Basel as well as several Gifford lecturers and two Templeton prize winners Organized historically Abraham's Dice provides a wide ranging scientific theological and biblical foundation to address the question of providence and divine action in a world shot through with contingency trial lawyer stands before a jury to argue a case about a Black victim killed by a white person how should the lawyer best argue the case Critical race theorists CRTs are pessimistic that a white jury can set aside its own racism in judging the Black victims actions and are skeptical of a jury s ability to fairly judge a white actor s motives Before the George Floyd and Ahmaud Arbery killings there was strong evidence The Innocence Project that the CRTs were right After all the prosecutors in the Ahmaud Arbery case were so convinced that a white jury in a Georgia county would not convict white vigilantes that they initially didn t even charge the killers with a crime However then back to back in both cases prosecutors prosecuted and the jury returned guilty verdicts They convicted Derrick Chauvin of murder They convicted Travis and Gregory McMichael and Roddie William Bryant of murder This book examines the how and why of these verdicts and asks whether they hold lessons vital to withstanding CRT challenges to the American justice system Conceiving the Christian College Duane Litfin, 2004-09-24 This book is designed to help those who are interested in Christian higher education explore anew the

God's Providence and Randomness in Nature Robert John Russell, Joshua M. Moritz, 2019-02-11 In October 2014 a group of mathematicians physicists ecologists philosophers and theologians gathered at a special conference in Berkeley California to present the results of a two year research program dubbed Project SATURN This program explored many rich avenues of thought at the intersection of modern science and Christian theology Chief among them is the possibility that specific processes might be so complex that they do not have sufficient physical causes Known as ontological indeterminism this idea has profound implications for theology Specifically it allows God to be thought of as acting providentially within nature without violating the laws and processes of nature Such a momentous insight could influence how we understand free will natural evil suffering in nature and the relation between divine providence and human evolution The essays collected here discussed these topics and were initially presented at the 2014 conference Part I establishes the scientific basis for conceptualizing specific processes in the universe as inherently random and possibly indeterministic Part II discusses the philosophical and theological issues that spring from this understanding Together they represent the cutting edge of thought in the increasingly productive dialogue between science and theology Short for the Scientific and Theological Understandings of Randomness in Nature Project SATURN was created by the Center for Theology and the Natural Sciences a Program of the Graduate Theological Union Berkeley It was funded with a grant administered by Calvin College and provided by the John Templeton Foundation
