Processing the News Doris Appel Graber, 1988-01-01 Processing the news Doris A. Graber, 1993 Basic Processes, 1994 Processing Politics Doris A. Graber, 2012-07-15 How often do we hear that Americans are so ignorant about politics that their civic competence is impaired and that the media are to blame because they do a dismal job of informing the public Processing Politics shows that average Americans are far smarter than the critics believe Integrating a broad range of current research on how people learn from political science social psychology communication physiology and artificial intelligence Doris Graber shows that televised presentations at their best actually excel at transmitting information and facilitating learning She critiques current political offerings in terms of their compatibility with our learning capacities and interests and she considers the obstacles both economic and political that affect the content we receive on the air on cable or on the Internet More and more people rely on information from television and the Internet to make important decisions Processing Politics offers a sound well researched defense of these remarkably versatile media and challenges us to make them work for us in our democracy Interpreting Television News Gabi Schaap, 2009-12-15 Television news range among the most extensively investigated topics in communication studies The book contributes to television news research by focusing on whether and how news viewers who watch the same news program form similar or different interpretations The author develops a novel concept of interpretation based on cognitive complexity research He strongly argues that qualitative and quantitative research methods work best if they complement one another Soft News Goes to War Matthew A. Baum, 2011-10-16 The American public has consistently declared itself less concerned with foreign affairs in the post Cold War era even after 9 11 than at any time since World War II How can it be then that public attentiveness to U S foreign policy crises has increased This book represents the first systematic attempt to explain this apparent paradox Matthew Baum argues that the answer lies in changes to television s presentation of political information In so doing he develops a compelling byproduct theory of information consumption The information revolution has fundamentally changed the way the mass media especially television covers foreign policy Traditional news has been repackaged into numerous entertainment oriented news programs and talk shows By transforming political issues involving scandal or violence especially attacks against America into entertainment the soft news media have actually captured more viewers who will now follow news about foreign crises due to its entertainment value even if they remain uninterested in foreign policy Baum rigorously tests his theory through content analyses of traditional and soft news media coverage of various post WWII U S foreign crises and statistical analyses of public opinion surveys The results hold key implications for the future of American politics and foreign policy For instance watching soft news reinforces isolationism among many inattentive Americans Scholars political analysts and even politicians have tended to ignore the soft news media and politically disengaged citizens But as this well written book cogently demonstrates soft news viewers represent a largely untapped reservoir of unusually persuadable voters Political Communication Richard M. Perloff, 2013-10-18 In this political communication text Richard M Perloff examines the various ways in which messages are constructed and communicated from public officials and politicians through the mass media to the ultimate receivers the people With a focus on the history of political communication he provides an overview of the most significant issues in the study of politics and the media In addition to synthesizing facts and theories and highlighting the scholarly contributions made to the understanding of political communication effects Political Communication addresses such factors as the rhetorical accomplishments of American presidents the ongoing tangles between the press and the presidency and the historical roots of politics as it is practiced and studied today It also addresses major issues about the press and politics that continually resurface such as question of press bias and the use and manipulation of media by politicians to accomplish national goals As a comprehensive and engaging introduction to contemporary political communication this volume provides all readers with a historical perspective on American politics and press and offers a unique appreciation of the strengths and virtues of political communication in America Public Opinion and the Communication of Consent Theodore Lewis Glasser, Charles T. Salmon, 1995-04-22 Public Opinion and the Communication of Consent offers an unprecedented range of scholarly perspectives on the relationship between public opinion and communication With contributions written from social scientific historical critical and cultural traditions the book illuminates the importance and richness of treating public opinion as a multifaceted concept Written by leading thinkers in the field some of the work s chapters offer state of the art reviews of research findings while others are scholarly treatises on some aspect of communication public opinion and society Topics covered include The nature and institutions of public opinion the influence of media on public opinion social and psychological contexts of public opinion the role public opinion assessment plays in a democratic society News As Discourse Teun A. van Dijk, 2013-10-28 First Published in 1990 This book presents a new interdisciplinary theory of news in the press Against the background of developments in discourse analysis it is argued that news should be studied primarily as a form of public discourse Whereas in much mass communication research the economic social or cultural dimensions of news and news media are addressed the present study emphasizes the importance of an explicit structural analysis of news reports Such an analysis should provide a qualitative alternative to traditional methods of content analysis Also attention is paid to processes of news production by journalists and news comprehension by readers in terms of the social cognitions of news participants In this way news structures can also be explicitly linked to social practices and ideologies of news making and indirectly to the institutional and macro sociological contexts of the news media Public Relations As Relationship Management John A. Ledingham, Stephen D. Bruning, 2000-01-01 The emergence of relationship management as a paradigm for public relations scholarship and practice requires a close examination of just what is achieved by public relations its definition function and value and the benefits it generates Initiated by the editors interest in cross disciplinary exploration this volume evolved to its current form as a result of the need for a framework for understanding public relations and the potential impact of organization public relationships on the study practice and teaching of public relations Ledingham and Bruning include contributions that present state of the art research in relationship management applications of the relational perspective to various components of public relations and the implications of the approach to influence further research and practice The discussion conducted here is certain to influence and promote future theory and practice on the concept of relationship management Extreme Media and American Politics J.

Benjamin Taylor, 2016-11-24 This book asks what are extreme television media and are they actually bad for American politics Taylor explores these questions and how these media affect political knowledge trust efficacy tolerance policy attitudes and political behaviors Using experiments and data from the National Annenberg Election Study this book shows how extreme media create both positive and negative externalities in American politics Many criticize these media because of their bombastic nature but bombast and affect also create positive effects for some consumers Previous research shows partisan media exacerbate polarization and those findings are taken further on immigration policy here However they also increase political knowledge increase internal efficacy and cause their viewers to engage in informal political behaviors like political discussion and advocacy The findings suggest there is much to be gained from these media market entrepreneurs and we should be wary of painting with too broad a brush about their negative effects
