Coping With Loss Susan Nolen-Hoeksema, Judith Larson, Judith M. Larson, 2013-01-11 Coping With Loss describes the many ways in which people cope with the death of someone they love Most earlier books on bereavement have fallen into two categories distillations of the clinical experience of individual therapists or collections of chapters reporting the results of empirical studies Each category is valuable but has tended to serve a narrow group of readers practitioners with particular theoretical orientations or researchers in quest of the latest findings Coauthored by a leading research psychologist and an experienced therapist who specializes in bereavement education and intervention this book is different The authors weave together the strands of theory research and clinical wisdom into a seamless and readable narrative While they discuss previous work they also present new data never before published from one of the largest studies of bereaved people ever conducted the Bereavement Coping Project Unlike most studies to date which focused on only one type of bereaved group usually widows or widowers the Bereavement Coping Project examined the experiences of several different groups during the first 18 months after the death The groups included those who had lost a spouse a parent an adult sibling or a child and those who had lost their significant other to cancer or cardiovascular disease on one hand as opposed to the stigmatized disease of AIDS on the other The book begins with a critical overview of theories of bereavement succeeding chapters explore in depth the impact of specific types of loss the impact of particular coping strategies on recovery the impact of social supports and religion and the special cases of children and of people who seem to grow and change for the better after a loss A final chapter considers implications for intervention with bereaved people Each chapter is richly illuminated with real life examples throughout and ends with a section called Voices in which bereaved people describe their various attempts to cope in their own words Insightful and informative at the plight of Jews in mid 20th century Eastern Europe From a small Angora farm in Satu Mare Romania to the horrifying grounds of Auschwitz and finally to a new life in America the five distinct voices of Edith Hilda and Mendi Festinger Nate Litvin and Kurt Meyers provide a powerful and intimate journey through one of mankind's darkest hours Litvin does well not to mute her sources with an authoritative filter The book's undeniable authenticity comes from the life events retold by each narrator while most historical texts offer one individual's take We Never Lost Hope presents five survivors working through their memories Litvin augmented the book with photographs news articles and other ephemera telegrams maps etc that support the sense of intimacy and reality Since some accounts can occasionally run long it may have been helpful for Litvin to provide more editorial insight and direction Still the book is a soaring testament to the strength and adaptability of five remarkable people A wonderfully executed powerful family chronicle Kirkus Discoveries 2 13 09
