Mixedblood Messages Louis Owens, 2001 In this challenging and often humorous book Louis Owens examines issues of Indian identity and relationship to the environment as depicted in literature and film and as embodied in his own mixedblood roots in family and land Powerful social and historical forces he maintains conspire to colonize literature and film by and about Native Americans into a safe Indian Territory that will contain and neutralize Indians Countering this colonial Territory is what Owens defines as Frontier a dynamic uncontainable multi directional space within which cultures meet and even merge Owens offers new insights into the works of Indian writers ranging from John Rollin Ridge Mourning Dove and D Arcy McNickle to N Scott Momaday Leslie Silko James Welch and Gerald Vizenor In his analysis of Indians in film he scrutinizes distortions of Indians as victims or vanishing Americans in a series of John Wayne movies and in the politically correct but false gestures of the more recent Dances With Wolves As Owens moves through his personal landscape in Oklahoma Mississippi California and New Mexico he questions how human beings collectively can alter their disastrous relationship with the natural world before they destroy it He challenges all of us to articulate through literature and other means messages of personal and environmental as well as cultural survival and to explore and share these messages by writing and reading across cultural boundaries Other Destinies Louis Owens, 1994

This first book length critical analysis of the full range of novels written between 1854 and today by American Indian authors takes as its theme the search for self discovery and cultural recovery In his introduction Louis Owens places the novels in context by considering their relationships to traditional American Indian oral literature as well as their differences from mainstream Euroamerican literature In the following chapters he looks at the novels of John Rollin Ridge Mourning Dove John Joseph Mathews D Arcy McNickle N Scott Momaday James Welch Leslie Marmon Silko Louise Erdrich Michael Dorris and Gerald Vizenor These authors are mixedbloods who in their writing try to come to terms with the marginalization both of mixed bloods and fullbloods and of their cultures in American society Their novels are complex and sophisticated narratives of cultural survival and survival guides for fullbloods and mixedbloods in modern America Rejecting the stereotypes and clichés long attached to the word Indian they appropriate and adapt the colonizers language English to describe the Indian experience These novels embody the American Indian point of view the non Indian is required to assume the role of other In his analysis Owens draws on a broad range of literary theory myth and folklore structuralism modernism poststructuralism and particularly postmodernism At the same time he argues that although recent American Indian fiction incorporates a number of significant elements often identified with postmodern writing it contradicts the primary impulse of postmodernism That is instead of celebrating fragmentation ephemerality and chaos these authors insist upon a cultural center that is intact and recoverable upon immutable values and ecological truths Other Destinies provides a new critical approach to novels by American Indians It also offers a comprehensive introduction to the novels helping teachers bring this important fiction to the classroom

Grave Concerns, Trickster Turns Christopher A. LaLonde, 2002 Who am I What am I Where do I belong These grave concerns take a lifetime for most people to answer They become even trickier for American Indians who all too often face literal and figurative burial by those in power Such concerns permeate the works of Louis Owens a mixedblood writer of Choctaw Cherokee Irish descent In this first book length examination of Owens's writings Chris LaLonde focuses on five critically acclaimed novels The Sharpest Sight Bone Game Wolfsong Nightland and Dark River According to LaLonde Owens works his stories like a trickster turning ideas back against themselves and playing with contradictory possibilities

Howe, Padraig Kirwan, 2020-10-01 The remarkable story of the money sent by the Choctaw to the Irish in 1847 is one that is often told and remembered by people in both nations This gift was sent to the Irish from the Choctaw at the height of the potato famine in Ireland just sixteen years after the Choctaw began their march on the Trail of Tears toward the areas west of the Mississippi River Famine Pots honors that extraordinary gift and provides further context about and consideration of this powerful symbol of cross cultural synergy through a collection of essays and poems that speak volumes of the empathy and connectivity between the two communities As well as signaling patterns of movement and exchange this study of the gift exchange invites reflection on processes of cultural formation within Choctaw and Irish society alike and sheds light on longtime concerns surrounding spiritual and social identities This volume aims to facilitate a fuller understanding of the historical complexities that surrounded migration and movement in the colonial world which in turn will help lead to a more constructive consideration of the ways in which Irish and Native American Studies might be drawn together today

Hunger for the Wild Michael L. Johnson, 2007 Americans have had an enduring yet ambivalent obsession with the West as both a place and a state of mind Michael L Johnson considers how that obsession originated how it has determined attitudes toward and activities in the West and how it has changed over the centuries A History of the Literature of the U.S.

South: Volume 1 Harilaos Stecopoulos, 2021-05-20 A History of the Literature of the U S South provides scholars with a dynamic and heterogeneous examination of southern writing from John Smith to Natasha Trethewey Eschewing a master narrative limited to predictable authors and titles the anthology adopts a variegated approach that emphasizes the cultural and political tensions crucial to the making of this regional literature Certain chapters focus on major white writers e g Thomas Jefferson William Faulkner the Agrarians Cormac McCarthy but a substantial portion of the work foregrounds the achievements of African American writers like Frederick Douglass Zora Neale Hurston and Sarah Wright to address the multiracial and transnational dimensions of this literary formation Theoretically informed and historically aware the volume's contributors collectively demonstrate how southern literature constitutes an aesthetic cultural and political field that richly repays examination from a variety of critical perspectives Postcolonial Theory and the United States Amritjit

Singh, Peter Schmidt, 2009-11-12 At the beginning of the twenty first century we may be in a transnational moment increasingly aware of the ways in which local and national narratives in literature and elsewhere cannot be conceived apart from a radically new sense of shared human histories and global interdependence To think transnationally about literature history and culture requires a study of the evolution of hybrid identities within nation states and diasporic identities across national boundaries Studies addressing issues of race ethnicity and empire in US culture have provided some of the most innovative and controversial contributions to recent scholarship Postcolonial Theory and the United States Race Ethnicity and Literature represents a new chapter in the emerging dialogues about the importance of borders on a global scale This book collects nineteen essays written in the 1990s in this emergent field by both well established and up and coming scholars

Almost all the essays have been either especially written for this volume or revised for inclusion here. These essays are accessible, well focused resources for college and university students and their teachers displaying both historical depth and theoretical finesse as they attempt close and lively readings. The anthology includes more than one discussion of each literary tradition associated with major racial or ethnic communities. Such a gathering of diverse complementary and often competing viewpoints provides a good introduction to the cultural differences and commonalities that comprise the United States today. The volume opens with two essays by the editors: first a survey of the ideas in the individual pieces and second a long essay that places current debates in US ethnicity and race studies within both the history of American studies as a whole and recent developments in postcolonial theory.

At the beginning of the twenty-first century we may be in a transnational moment increasingly aware of the ways in which local and national narratives in literature and elsewhere cannot be conceived apart from a radically new sense of shared human histories and global interdependence.
