personifications Yet no commentator before the eighteenth century suggests that prosopopoeia signals a form of reduced agency Andrew Escobedo argues that premodern writers including Spenser Marlowe and Milton understood personification as a literary expression of will an essentially energetic figure that depicted passion or concept transforming into action As the will emerged as an isolatable faculty in the Christian Middle Ages it was seen not only as the instrument of human agency but also as perversely independent of other human capacities for example intellect and moral character Renaissance accounts of the will conceived of volition both as the means to self creation and the faculty by which we lose control of ourselves After offering a brief history of the will that isolates the distinctive features of the faculty in medieval and Renaissance thought Escobedo makes his case through an examination of several personified figures in Renaissance literature Conscience in the Tudor interludes Despair in Doctor Faustus and book I of The Faerie Queen Love in books III and IV of The Faerie Queen and Sin in Paradise Lost These examples demonstrate that literary personification did not amount to a dim reflection of realistic fictional character but rather that it provided a literary means to explore the numerous conundrums posed by the premodern notion of the human will This book will be of great interest to faculty and graduate students interested in medieval studies and Renaissance literature

Entertainments, 1890 The Trojan War Diane P. Thompson, 2013-06-24 The Trojan War occurred more than 3 000 years ago Since then starting with Homer's epics people have been writing painting sculpting and creating music about this event and its participants This book starts with an overview of the Bronze Age when the Trojan War occurred and then follows a selection of the major literature about this war from Homer down through the ages and on to the Internet Each retelling of the Troy story is discussed in its historical context and includes a synopsis of the story itself The ways of telling the story change over time The main versions considered include Homer's Iliad and Odyssey a selection of Classical Greek Dramas especially Iphigenia at Aulis Virgil's Aeneid Chaucer's Troilus and Criseyde Guido delle Colonne's History of the Destruction of Troy Racine's Iphigenia at Aulis Goethe's Iphigenia in Tauris Shakespeare's Troilus and Cressida Joyce's Ulysses and two feminist Troy novels Sheri Tepper's The Gate to Women's Country and Marion Zimmer Bradley's The Firebrand Instructors considering this book for use in a course may request an examination copy here Universal Classics Library, 1901 The Mirror of the Self Shadi Bartsch, 2017-07-21 People in the ancient world thought of vision as both an ethical tool and a tactile sense akin to touch Gazing upon someone or oneself was treated as a path to philosophical self knowledge but the question of tactility introduced an erotic element as well In The Mirror of the Self Shadi Bartsch asserts that these links among vision sexuality and self knowledge are key to the classical understanding of the self Weaving together literary theory philosophy and social history Bartsch traces this complex notion of self from Plato's Greece to Seneca's Rome She starts by showing how ancient authors envisioned the mirror as both a tool for ethical self improvement and paradoxically a sign of erotic self indulgence Her reading of the Phaedrus for example demonstrates that the mirroring gaze in Plato because of its sexual possibilities could not be adopted by Roman philosophers and their students Bartsch goes on to examine the Roman treatment of the ethical and sexual gaze and she traces how self knowledge the philosopher's body and the performance of virtue all played a role in shaping the Roman understanding of the nature of selfhood Culminating in a profoundly original reading of Medea The Mirror of the Self illustrates how Seneca in his Stoic quest for self knowledge embodies the Roman view marking a new point in human thought about self perception Bartsch leads readers on a journey that unveils divided selves moral hypocrisy and lustful Stoics and offers fresh insights about seminal works At once sexy and philosophical The Mirror of the Self will be required reading for classicists philosophers and anthropologists alike In and Out of the Mind Ruth Padel, 2016-09-26 Ruth Padel explores Greek conceptions of human innerness and the way in which Greek tragedy shaped European notions of mind and self Arguing that Greek poetic language connects images of consciousness even male consciousness with the darkness attributed to Hades and to women Padel analyzes tragedy's biological and daemonological metaphors for what is within Grail Mystery: An Adventure on The Heights Thomas Kaplan-Maxfield, 2012-03-06 It's the fall of 2010 at Jesuit run Boston College where senior Jack Knecht has just seen a ghostly figure in long antique robes slipping into Gasson Hall the Gothic bell tower looming over the stately campus Students and faculty alike comfortably at home on The Heights know the building is locked for major renovations this semester Why would a spirit in 18th century dress be haunting contemporary college life Jack wonders Thus begins this driving mystery adventure in which Jack and his girlfriend Fran Romero run from menacing ghosts are attacked out of the blue by a fiery dragon overhead and a raging bull underground and have to face suspicious Jesuits threatening expulsion all while keeping up with classes in this most sociable of schools These are reasons enough to quickly decipher a tantalizing ancient map that convincingly points to the BC campus as the secret site of the Holy Grail lost for centuries now Proceeding by their wits with crucial help from eccentric art history professor Melinda Galen the fey ghost of the last Templar grand master Jacques de Molay and an imaginative close knit circle
