Adaptation and the Avant-Garde William Verrone, 2011-09-29 Adaptations have occurred regularly since the beginning of cinema but little recognition has been given to avant garde adaptations of literary or other texts This compelling study corrects such omissions by detailing the theory and practice of alternative adaptation practices from major avant garde directors Avant Garde films are often relegated to the margins because they challenge our traditional notions of what film form and style can accomplish Directors who choose to adapt previous material run the risk of severe critical dismay making films that are highly subjective interpretations or representations of existing texts takes courage and foresight An avant garde adaptation provokes spectators by making them re think what they know about film itself just as much as the previous source material Adaptation and the Avant Garde examines films by Peter Greenaway Jean Luc Godard Guy Maddin Jan Svankmajer and many others offering illuminating insights and making us reconsider the nature of adaptation appropriation borrowing and the re imagining of previous sources

Exposing the Film Apparatus

Giovanna Fossati, Annie Oever, 2025-10-01 Film archives have long been dedicated to preserving movies and they've been nimble in recent years in adapting to the changing formats and technologies through which cinema is now created and presented. This collection makes the case for a further step: the need to see media technologies themselves as objects of conservation, restoration, presentation and research in both film archives and film studies. Contributors with a wide range of expertise in the film and media world consider the practical and theoretical challenges posed by such conservation efforts and consider their potential to generate productive new possibilities in research and education in the field. Inventing Film Studies

Allyson Field, 2015-11-13 L.A. Rebellion: Creating a New Black Cinema is the first book dedicated to the films and filmmakers of the L.A. Rebellion, a group of African Caribbean and African American independent film and video artists that formed at the University of California, Los Angeles in the 1970s and 1980s. The group, including Charles Burnett, Julie Dash, Haile Gerima, Billy Woodberry, Jamaa Fanaka and Zeinabu irene Davis, shared a desire to create alternatives to the dominant modes of narrative style and practice in American cinema, works that reflected the full complexity of Black experiences. This landmark collection of essays and oral histories examines the creative output of the L.A. Rebellion, contextualizing the group's film practices and offering sustained analyses of the wide range of works, with particular attention to newly discovered films and lesser-known filmmakers. Based on extensive archival work and preservation, this collection includes a complete filmography of the movement, over 100 illustrations, most of which are previously unpublished, and a bibliography of primary and secondary materials. This is an indispensable sourcebook for scholars and enthusiasts, establishing the key role played by the L.A. Rebellion within the histories of cinema, Black visual culture and postwar art in Los Angeles. Some of These Days

Found Sculpture and Photography from Surrealism to Contemporary Art Julia Kelly, 2017-07-05 Taking its departure point from the 1933 surrealist photographs of involuntary sculptures by Brassa and Dal Found Sculpture and Photography from Surrealism to Contemporary Art offers fresh perspectives on the sculptural object by relating it to both surrealist concerns with chance and the crucial role of photography in framing the everyday This collection of essays questions the nature of sculptural practice looking to forms of production and reproduction that blur the boundaries between things that are made and things that are found One of the book's central themes is the interplay of presence and absence in sculpture as it is highlighted, disrupted or multiplied through photography's indexical nature The essays examine the surrealist three-dimensional object its relation to and transformation through photographs as well as the enduring legacies of such concerns for the artwork's materiality and temporality in performance and conceptual practices from the 1960s through the present Found Sculpture and Photography sheds new light on the shifts in status of the art object challenging the specificity of visual practices pursuing a radical interrogation of agency in modern and contemporary practices and exploring the boundaries between art and everyday life
