when Helen made her first artistic breakthroughs are both light and lush seemingly easy and yet profound His book is an ode to a truly great artist who some seventy years after this story begins we are only now beginning to understand Mary Gabriel author of Ninth Street Women At the dawn of the 1950s a promising and dedicated young painter named Helen Frankenthaler fresh out of college moved back home to New York City to make her name By the decade s end she had succeeded in establishing herself as an important American artist of the postwar period In the years in between she made some of the most daring head turning paintings of her day and also came into her own as a woman traveling the world falling in and out of love and engaging in an ongoing artistic education She also experienced anew and left her mark on the city in which she had been raised in privilege as the daughter of a judge even as she left the security of that world to pursue her artistic ambitions Brought to vivid life by acclaimed art historian Alexander Nemerov these defining moments from her first awed encounter with Jackson Pollock s drip paintings to her first solo gallery show to her tumultuous breakup with eminent art critic Clement Greenberg comprise a portrait as bold and distinctive as the painter herself Inspired by Pollock and the other male titans of abstract expressionism but committed to charting her own course Frankenthaler was an artist whose talent was matched only by her unapologetic determination to distinguish herself in a man s world Fierce Poise is an exhilarating ride through New York s 1950s art scene and a brilliant portrait of a young artist through the moments that shaped her

De Kooning John Elderfield, Willem De Kooning, Lauren Mahony, Jennifer Field, Delphine Huisinga, Susan Lake, 2011 This publication offers an unparalleled opportunity to appreciate the development of the artist s work as it unfolded over nearly seven decades beginning with his early academic works made in Holland before he moved to the United States in 1926 and concluding with his final sparely abstract paintings of the late 1980s
