BabyTalk Dr. Sally Ward, 2009-02-19 Parents profoundly influence their child's language development including their ability to listen, understand and communicate. From birth to three years is the crucial window of opportunity during which a child's learning potential is at its fullest and most formative. Now with this amazing book, parents can use the revolutionary BabyTalk program to maximize their baby's language skills and provide a solid foundation for later learning in just thirty minutes a day. What's more, it fits into the normal pattern of your child's play. Use BabyTalk to give your baby a lifelong advantage for learning.

Dinner Talk Shoshana Blum-Kulka, 2012-12-06 Dinner Talk draws upon the recorded dinner conversations of and extensive interviews with native Israeli, American Israeli and Jewish American middle class families to explore the cultural styles of sociability and socialization in family discourse. The thesis developed is that family dinners in Western middle class homes fulfill important functions of sociability for all participants and at the same time serve as crucial sites of socialization for children through language and for language use. The book demonstrates the way talk at dinner constructs, reflects and invokes familial, social and cultural identities and provides social support for easing the passage of children into adult discourse worlds. Family discourse at dinner emerges as a particularly rich site for discursive socialization and a highly meaningful enactment of sociable behavior in culturally patterned ways. Although all the families studied have a common Eastern European background, Israeli and Jewish American families are shown to differ extensively in their interactional styles in ways that enact historically different community-related interpretations of the dialectics of continuity and change. Native Israeli, American Israeli and Jewish American families differ culturally in the ways they negotiate issues of power, independence and involvement through various speech activities such as the choice and initiation of topics, conversational story telling, naming practices, metapragmatic discourse, politeness strategies and in immigrant bilingual families, language choice and code switching. Dinner Talk demonstrates the unique interactional style of each of the groups, linking the observed communication patterns to the ideological, sociocultural and historical contexts of their respective communities. This innovative study of family discourse from a cross-cultural perspective will appeal to students and specialists in sociolinguistics, communication anthropology, child language and family and Jewish studies as well as to all interested in patterns of communication within families.
