Diachrony of Personal Pronouns in Japanese Osamu

Ishiyama,2019-01-15 Personal pronouns in Japanese form a heterogeneous category This book investigates their historical development from a functional perspective It shows that while nouns give rise to personal pronouns through semanticization of pragmatic inferences the use of non nominal forms such as demonstratives and reflexives for person referents can be resolved within their original functions offering little reason to treat them as personal pronouns The cross linguistic investigation into the common sources of personal pronouns reveals that the development of personal pronouns from nouns is largely consistent with grammaticalization but that of forms of non nominal origins requires separate mechanisms such as spatial empathetic perspectives and displacement of semantic features for politeness showing that a one size fits all approach to diachrony of personal pronouns is not sufficient This book will be of special interest to researchers and students in historical linguistics pragmatics and Japanese linguistics who take a functional view of language Care Communication

Peter Backhaus,2017-03-27 This book studies communication in institutional eldercare It is based on audio recorded interactions between residents and staff in a Japanese care facility The focus is on the morning care routines which include getting the residents out of bed and ready for the day Combining quantitative and qualitative methods the analysis explores the characteristics of care communication as they become manifest in the interactional small print Topics include the use of terms of address and formal speech the basic organisation of openings and closings the difficulties of talking while working and at times working while talking and tempo differences between residents and staff as they move along between bed and breakfast The research findings are contextualised with results from previous studies tracing significant features and explanation for deviant cases The author is a trained linguist and certified nursing assistant with first hand working experience in institutional eldercare
