Gallup, Dean Falk, 2004-07-06 We've all witnessed this moment a dog a cat or another animal reacting to its own reflection in the mirror treating it as another animal to be played with or confronted As human beings we take self recognition for granted but this seemingly simple ability represents one of the most complex mysteries of neuroscience The Face in the Mirror takes readers on a lively tour of the neurological anthropological and psychological roots of self recognition from the intricate network in the brain that enables higher primates to recognize their image to complex self related emotions such as humor embarrassment and jealousy that play a crucial role in our evolution and survival From animals who share our ability for self recognition to case studies of patients who no longer recognize who they are the authors examine some of the latest evidence on a subject that has puzzled philosophers and scientists for millennia how do we know who we are
