Mirror Of Her Own:

The Weaponized Camera in the Middle East Liat Berdugo, 2021-01-14 Drawing on unprecedented access to the video archives of B Tselem an Israeli NGO that distributes cameras to Palestinians living in the West Bank East Jerusalem and the Gaza Strip Liat Berdugo lays out an argument for a visual studies approach to videographic evidence in Israel Palestine Using video stills as core material it discusses the politics of videographic evidence in Israel Palestine by demonstrating that the conflict is one that has produced an inequality of visual rights The book highlights visual surveillance and counter surveillance at the citizen level how Palestinians originally filmed to shoot back at Israelis who were armed with shooting power via weapons as the occupying force It also traces how Israeli private citizens began filming back at Palestinians with their own cameras including personal cell phone cameras thus creating a simultaneous echoing counter surveillance Complicating the notion that visual evidence alone can secure justice the Weaponized Camera in The Middle East asks how what is seen but also who is seeing affects how conflicts are visually recorded Drawing on over 5 000 hours of footage only a fraction of which is easily accessible to the public domain this book offers a unique perspective on the strategies and battlegrounds of the Israel Palestine conflict

The Fluid Frame in Cinema Pradipta Mukherjee, 2021-08-13 This book is a passionate rendezvous with cinema the most collaborative of art forms The essays here explore the possibilities offered by a close reading of cinema that keeps cultural contexts and their socio historical roots firmly in sight This collection does not consider the frame that oft referenced basic unit of vision in films as a limiting structure Rather it brings into purview what is left out Divided into three sections the essays look firstly at Indian cinema both Bollywood and regional films tracing the journey of Indian cinema from the periphery to the center The second section focuses on Adaptation Studies and takes an unorthodox look at classic adaptations of literature The final section is a reappraisal of directors like Alfred Hitchcock and Stanley Kubrick The essays propose that even though the film as an artwork does not change fundamentally over time it still strikes a contemporary critical gaze differently

Memory and the Management of Change Emily Keightley, Michael Pickering, 2017-11-09 This book shows how the mnemonic imagination creatively uses the resources of photography and music in the registering and management of change Looking in particular at major transitions and turning points it covers key issues of identity for the remembering subject and key scales of remembering in vernacular milieus The book explores the connections of memory and remembering with transformations in intimate relationships migration and spatial mobilities loss and bereavement involving loved ones or those with whom close affinities are felt resulting in a volume that helps fill the gap in memory studies caused by lack of sustained ethnographic work Drawing on extensive fieldwork on the processes and practices of remembering in everyday life it demonstrates how the mnemonic imagination is central to the management of change and transition and how its cross temporal interanimations of past present and future are fostered and facilitated by the visual and sonic resources of photography and recorded music

Moral Aims Cheshire Calhoun, 2015-11-02 We rely on two different conceptions of morality On the one hand we think of morality as a correct action guide Morality is accessed by taking up a critical reflective point of view where our concern is with identifying the moral rules that would be the focus of the requiring activities of persons in a hypothetical social world whose participants were capable of accessing the justifications for everyone's endorsing just this set of rules On the other hand in doing virtually anything connected with morality making demands offering excuses justifying choices expressing moral attitudes getting uptake on our resentments and the like we rely on social practices of morality and shared moral understandings that make our moral activities and attitudes intelligible to others This second conception of morality unlike the first is not shaped by the aim of getting it right or the contrast between correct and merely supposed moral requirements It is shaped by the moral aim of practicing morality with others within an actual not merely hypothetical scheme of social cooperation If practices based on misguided moral norms seem not to be genuine morality under the first conception merely hypothetical practices seem not to be the genuine article under the second conception The premise of this book which collects together nine previously published essays and a new introduction is that both conceptions are indispensable But exactly how is the moral theorist to go about working simultaneously with two such different conceptions of morality The book's project is not to construct an overarching methodology for handling the two conceptions of morality Instead it is to provide case studies of that work being done
