Abstract: Background: The COVID-19 pandemic has exacerbated existing healthcare disparities among American Indian/Alaska Native (AI/AN) populations rooted in historical traumas and systemic marginalization. Methods: This study conducted at a single Indian Health Service (IHS) clinic in central Michigan evaluates two educational interventions for enhancing COVID-19 knowledge and attitudes in a sample AI/AN population. Utilizing a pre/post-intervention prospective study design, participants received either a video or infographic educational intervention, followed by a survey assessing their COVID-19 knowledge and attitudes. Results: The results indicate significant improvements in knowledge and attitudes post-intervention, with both modalities proving effective. However, specific factors such as gender, political affiliation, and place of residence influenced COVID-19 attitudes and knowledge, emphasizing the importance of tailored interventions. Conclusions: Despite limitations, this study highlights the critical role of educational interventions in addressing vaccine hesitancy and promoting health equity within AI/AN communities. Moving forward, comprehensive strategies involving increased Indian Health Service funding, culturally relevant interventions, and policy advocacy are crucial in mitigating healthcare disparities and promoting health equity within AI/AN communities.

1. Introduction

American Indian/Alaska Native/Native American (AI/AN) populations have long experienced disparities in healthcare access and outcomes rooted in a history of colonization, forced relocation, and systemic marginalization [1–4]. These historical traumas have contributed to persistent health inequities, making AI/AN populations particularly vulnerable to the devastating effects of the COVID-19 virus [5–11]. The COVID-19 pandemic has presented challenges throughout the world. Among the various sectors and populations that the pandemic has affected, AI/AN communities have faced unique and disproportionate burdens stemming from historical, socioeconomic, and health-related disparities. The COVID-19 pandemic has disproportionately affected the AI/AN population across the country. AI/AN populations endured (i) COVID-19 infection rates over
