

Mobilization

Students read a 2 page texts and complete a chart.

Two sample pages from a resource book are shown, illustrating the mobilization efforts during World War I. The pages include text, a table, and a poster.

Page 1: Mobilizing for World War I - The Homefront

Directions: Carefully read the following passage about how the United States mobilized for World War I. Describe these efforts on the chart.

World War I was a total war. In previous wars, the civilian population avoided the war effort. They were placed in shelters for food and clothing, and some 19th-century troops were drafted from the army from the general population. But modern technology required more food and industrial goods. The economic needs of 20th-century warfare created earlier wars. Therefore, mobilizing every citizen. The economic needs of 20th-century warfare created earlier wars. Therefore, mobilizing every citizen. The economic needs of 20th-century warfare created earlier wars. Therefore, mobilizing every citizen.

Page 2: Raising the Country

Congress declared war. President Wilson quickly created the Committee on Public Information under the direction of George Creel. Creel used every possible medium to inspire popular sentiment. Creel organized rallies and parades. He commissioned composers to write patriotic songs intended to stir the nation.

Creel's organization, indeed, "Over There" became an overnight success. It inspired millions of Americans to do everything they could to support the war effort. It inspired millions of Americans to do everything they could to support the war effort. It inspired millions of Americans to do everything they could to support the war effort.

Supporting a Wartime Economy

One of the first actions was to raise an army with the Selective Service Act. This act called a national draft. It required all men to register for the draft. It required all men to register for the draft. It required all men to register for the draft.

How did the U.S. prepare and support the war effort?

How did they?	Government Actions
How did they?	Selective Service Act
How did they?	War Bonds
How did they?	New Taxes
