Abstract:- This study aims to find aspects of social criticism in a collection of literary works at the Bromo Writing Camp workshop held by the magister literary and cultural studies program at Airlangga university. The research problem is to find and describe the forms of social criticism found in selected literary works at the Bromo Writing Camp workshop. The method used in analyzing the short story is a qualitative descriptive method using the sociology of literature approach. From the 20 manuscripts, we chose four manuscripts as objects of research to be analyzed for the themes and content of the manuscripts. The four manuscripts found different forms of social criticism related to the fading of cultural values as national identity, gender inequality, poverty and social exclusion, deviations of social norms and moral values norms, and moral values.

I. INTRODUCTION

Literature as a work of art cannot separate itself from the background of the author and the socio-cultural conditions in which the literary work was born. Literature is a social phenomenon related to aspects of the author, the reader, and human life. The literary work becomes the author's tool for expressing his attitude and reaction to the social conditions in which it exists (Abubakar et al., 2022). Literature is written with full appreciation and a touch of the soul which is then packaged into a deep imagination about life. Many authors are inspired by the realities of people's lives in writing literary works. According to (Wellek & Warren, 1956), the nature of literature presents the most common approach to the relation between literature and society. So it can be said that exploring a literary work is the same as exploring a social life. Thus, literary works were used initially as a medium of entertainment, but recently literary works also functioned to criticize social problems.

One of the most powerful communication media in conveying social problems is literary works. Through literary works, social problems that occur in society are described in various ways, ranging from giving satire, sarcasm, and cynicism to irony. This is what is called social criticism. Social criticism is a topic that is often discussed and analysed in literary work. It can be concluded that social criticism is a form of social sensitivity that covers several aspects of life, such as politics, economics, society, and culture. The authors are expected to be able to insert the values of life that they want to convey to their readers. By inserting social criticisms into literary works, we can distribute the moral values contained so that they can be used as life lessons and social control.

Nowadays, many litterateurs use social problems as a basic theme in literature work. This problem pours into a social criticism of the realities that occur in people's lives. For instance, we can see on short story collection of workshop participants that have collected on "Bromo Writing Camp".

The short story is one of the literary works in the form of prose that presents certain aspects of life in society. The short story is an image of a society expressed in an article as a humanitarian issue, love, hope, protest, social inequality, religiosity, etc. (Asrul & Asri, 2019). The authors discuss the social problems of their people in language packages, either directly or indirectly. The indirect depiction of a phenomenon in a literary work can be understood through its intrinsic elements.

Based on the explanation above, the problem that is the focus of this research is to reveal the social criticism reflected in the short story script of the participants of the Bromo Writing Camp workshop. The problems that researchers want to explain in the short story compilation include: (1). What is the author trying to describe in his literary work? and (2). What kind of social criticism is depicted in the literary work?

The sociology of literature is a theoretical approach used to answer these questions. The sociology of literature is a specialized area of study that focuses on the relation between a literary work and the social structure in which it is created (Meyliana, 2019). A sociological approach is needed to find the phenomenon of social reality in short stories. Wellek and Warren (1956) suggest three classifications of the sociology of literature: the sociology of the author, the sociology of work, and the sociology of the reader. Concerning sociology or the science that discusses society, Swingewood (1987) formulates three concepts in the literary work approach, namely: literature as sociological documentation, literature seen from the author's process of making a literary work, and literature concerning history or public acceptance of literary works at a certain period. By observing a literary work, we will encounter various social problems that can be raised as a form of social criticism.

Based on the explanation above, the problem that is the focus of this research is to reveal the social criticism reflected in the short story script of the participants of the Bromo Writing Camp workshop. The problems that researchers want to explain in the short story compilation include: (1). What is the author trying to describe in his literary work? and (2). What kind of social criticism is depicted in the literary work?
