Real Negro:

The Real Negro Shelly Eversley, 2004-03-29 In this book Shelly Eversley historicizes the demand for racial authenticity what Zora Neale Hurston called the real Negro in twentieth century American literature Eversley argues that the modern emergence of the interest in the real Negro transforms the question of what race an author belongs into a question of what it takes to belong to that race Consequently Paul Laurence Dunbar's Negro dialect poems were prized in the first part of the century because written by a black man they were not imitation black while the dialect performances by Zora Neale Hurston were celebrated because written by a real black they were not imitation white The second half of the century in its dismissal of material segregation sanctions a notion of black racial meaning as internal and psychological and thus promotes a version of black racial truth as invisible and interior yet fixed within a stable conception of difference The Real Negro foregrounds how investments in black racial specificity illuminate the dynamic terms that define what makes a text and a person black while it also reveals how blackness spoken and authentic guards a more fragile because unspoken commitment to the purity and primacy of whiteness as a stable uncontested ideal

The New Negro Aesthetic Alain Locke, 2022-01-18 Pulitzer Prize winning biographer edits a collection of Alain Locke's influential essays on the importance of the Black artist and the Black imagination A Penguin Classic For months the philosopher Alain Locke wrestled with the idea of the Negro as America's most vexing problem He asked how shall Negroes think of themselves as he considered the new crop of poets novelists and short story writers who in 1924 wrote about their experiences as Black people in America He did not want to frame Harlem and Black writing as yet another protest against racism nor did he want to focus on the sociological perspective on the Negro problem and Harlem as a site of crime poverty and dysfunction He wanted to find new language and a new way for Black people to think of themselves The essays and articles collected in this volume by Locke's Pulitzer Prize winning biographer are the result of that new attitude and the struggle to instill the New Negro aesthetics as Stewart calls it here into the mind of the twentieth century To be a New Negro poet novelist actor musician dancer or filmmaker was to commit oneself to an arc of self discovery of what and who the Negro was would be without fear that one would disappoint the white or Black bystander In committing to that path Locke asserted one would uncover a being in the world that was rich and bountiful in its creative possibilities if Black people could turn off the noise of racism and see themselves for who they really are a world of creative people who have transformed powerfully and perpetually the culture of wherever history or social forces landed them

McInnis,2025-05-13 Built on the grounds of a former cotton plantation the Tuskegee Institute founded by Booker T Washington offered agricultural and industrial education as a strategy for Black self determination There and in many other communities in the U S South the Caribbean and Central America Black people repurposed and regenerated what had been a place of enslavement into a site for imagining alternative futures Jarvis C McInnis charts a new account of Black modernity by centering Tuskegee s vision of agrarian worldmaking He traces the diasporic ties and networks of exchange that linked Black communities in the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries Although Washington is often regarded as an accommodationist McInnis shows how artists intellectuals and political leaders including George Washington Carver Jean Price Mars Zora Neale Hurston Claude McKay and Marcus Garvey adapted Tuskegee s methods into dynamic strategies for liberation in places like Cuba Puerto Rico Haiti and Jamaica Even as the legacy of the plantation continued to circumscribe Black life these thinkers found resources in its ruins to forge new theories and practices of progress aesthetic innovation and freedom that contributed to the New Negro Movement of the 1920s and 1930s In contrast to traditional understandings of Black modernity as urban and premised on northward migration McInnis foregrounds rural settings and practices of place making rootedness and liberatory agriculture Shedding new light on the transnational influence of a historically Black institution in the U S South Afterlives of the Plantation remaps Black cultural intellectual and political histories down to the very soil
