Seeing Anthropology W Video:

Seeing Anthropology Karl G. Heider, 2001 Video includes short clips from 15 ethnographic films tied to chapters in the book Seeing and Being Seen Hilary E. Kahn, 2010-01-01 The practice of morality and the formation of identity among an indigenous Latin American culture are framed in a pioneering ethnography of sight that attempts to reverse the trend of anthropological fieldwork and theory overshadowing one another In this vital and richly detailed work methodology and theory are treated as complementary partners as the author explores the dynamic Mayan customs of the Q'eqchi' people living in the cultural crossroads of Livingston Guatemala Here Q'eqchi' Ladino and Garifuna Caribbean coast Afro Indians societies interact among themselves and with others ranging from government officials to capitalists to contemporary tourists The fieldwork explores the politics of sight and incorporates a video camera operated by multiple people the author and the Q'eqchi' people themselves to watch unobtrusively the traditions rituals and everyday actions that exemplify the long standing moral concepts guiding the Q'eqchi' in their relationships and tribulations Sharing the camera lens as well as the lens of ethnographic authority allows the author to slip into the world of the Q'eqchi' and capture their moral social political economic and spiritual constructs shaped by history ancestry external forces and time itself A comprehensive history of the Q'eqchi' illustrates how these former plantation laborers migrated to lands far from their Mayan ancestral homes to co exist as one of several competing cultures and what impact this had on maintaining continuity in their identities moral codes of conduct and perception of the changing outside world With the innovative use of visual methods and theories the author's reflexive sensory oriented ethnographic approach makes this a study that itself becomes a reflection of the complex set of social structures embodied in its subject

Power and Informality in Urban Africa Laura Stark, Annika Björnsdotter Teppo, 2021-12-16 Urban Africa is undergoing a transformation unlike anywhere else in the world as unprecedented numbers of people migrate to rapidly expanding cities But despite the growing body of work on urban Africa the lives of these new city dwellers have received relatively little attention particularly when it comes to crucial issues of power and inequality This interdisciplinary collection brings together contributions from urban studies geography and anthropology to provide new insights into the social and political dynamics of African cities as well as uncovering the causes and consequences of urban inequality Featuring rich new ethnographic research data and case studies drawn from across the continent the collection shows that Africa s new urbanites have adapted to their environs in ways which often defy the assumptions of urban planners By examining the experiences of these urban residents in confronting issues of power and agency the contributors consider how such insights can inform more effective approaches to research city planning and development both in Africa and beyond

Visual Methods in Social Research Marcus Banks,2001-03-09 There has been an explosion of interest in visual culture coming largely from work in sociology anthropology and cultural studies and while there are a number of practical and technical manuals available for film photographic and other visual media there is a dearth of writing that combines both the practical and the technical This book redresses this with a balanced approach that is written primarily for students in the social sciences who wish to use visual materials in the course of empirical qualitative field research It should also be of interest to experienced researchers who wish to expand their methodological approaches Visual methods provides empirical approaches to both image creation and image analysis drawing on a wide range of examples from research conducted on Egyptian television soap opera to the sale of ethnographic photographs in London auction houses to pornographic images on the Web New technologies are also included with image digitization and computer based multimedia extensively covered There are sections on using film and photographic archives and useful practical advice on publishing and presenting the results of visual research Marcus Banks stresses the material nature of visual media as objects that are entangled in social relations and argues for a humanistic engaged and reflexive approach to social research This book will be an indispensable guide for the use and study of social images

Handbook of Emergent Methods Sharlene Nagy Hesse-Biber,Patricia Leavy,2013-10-15 Social researchers increasingly find themselves looking beyond conventional methods to address complex research questions This is the first

Points of Viewing Children's Thinking Ricki Goldman-Segall, Ricki Goldman, 2014-04-08 This book is about learning and ethnography in the context of technologies Simultaneously it portrays young people's thinking attitudes in computer based learning environments and it describes how the practice of ethnography is changing in a digital world The author likens this form of interaction to the double helix where learning and ethnography are intertwined to tell an emergent story about partnerships with technology Two school computer cultures were videotaped for this study Separated not only by geography one school is on the east coast of New England and the other on the west coast of British Columbia on Vancouver Island they are also separated in other ways ethnic make up and inner city vs rural settings to name only two Yet these two schools are joined by a strong thread a change in their respective cultures with the advent of intensive computer use on the part of the students Both school communities have watched their young people gain literacy and competence and their tools have changed from pen to computer video camera multimedia and the Internet Perhaps most striking is that the way they think of themselves as learners has also changed they see themselves as an active participant in the pilot s seat or director s chair as they chart new connections between diverse and often unpredictable worlds of knowledge

Viewpoints
 Mary Strong,Laena Wilder,2009-05-01 Early in its history anthropology was a visual as well as verbal discipline But as time passed visually oriented professionals became a minority among their colleagues and most anthropologists used written words rather than audiovisual modes as their professional means of communication Today however contemporary electronic and interactive media once more place visual anthropologists and anthropologically oriented artists within the mainstream Digital media small sized and easy to use equipment and the Internet with its interactive and public forum websites democratize roles once relegated to highly trained professionals alone However having access to a good set of tools does not guarantee accurate and reliable work Visual anthropology involves much more than media alone This book presents visual anthropology as a work in progress open to the myriad innovations that the new audiovisual communications technologies bring to the field It is intended to aid in contextualizing explaining and humanizing the storehouse of visual knowledge that university students and general readers now encounter and to help inform them about how these new media tools can be used for intellectually and socially beneficial purposes Concentrating on documentary photography and ethnographic film as well as lesser known areas of study and presentation including dance painting architecture archaeology and primate research the book s fifteen contributors feature populations living on all of the world s continents as well as within the United States The final chapter gives readers practical advice about how to use the most current digital and interactive technologies to present research findings Interaction and Mobility Pentti Haddington, Lorenza Mondada, Maurice Nevile, 2013-05-28

How do people interact when they are on the move How do people interact in order to be mobile How do people coordinate the mobility of others How does mobility feature in social interaction Multimodal interaction and mobility are of increasing interest to scholars across disciplines Interaction and mobility is the first book to study these aspects comprehensively It provides cutting edge research by international scholars who use video recordings of real life everyday interactions for studying in close detail human social interaction in such diverse multimodal settings as airplanes cars traffic control centres dance schools museums and other public places and as part of such activities as instructing navigating identifying an enemy on the battlefield organising a meeting playing videogames shopping performing and dancing Together these studies highlight features of social interaction including language embodied conduct and spatial and material orientation for being mobile for interacting on the move so that mobility becomes a ubiquitous feature of our lives This book is a valuable resource to anyone interested in multimodal interaction and mobility Music and Minorities from Around the World Ursula Hemetek, Essica Marks, Adelaida Reyes, 2014-11-10

The acceleration of mobility among the worlds peoples the growth of populations resettling in places other than their homelands and world events that have propelled these developments have brought minorities unprecedented attention Their significance as subjects for study has grown correspondingly and the study of their music has become an important gateway into understanding the culture of minorities Doing Visual Ethnography Sarah Pink, 2007 Those already proficient in ethnographic methods will find Doing Visual Ethnography a foray into what should be an increasingly normative terrain and what is certainly a much needed addition to the literature They will be challenged to simultaneously take on new methodological conceits and their application beyond traditional boundaries Library Information Science Research Following on from the success of Doing Visual Ethnography this fully revised and updated second edition explores the use and potential of photography video and hypermedia in ethnographic and social research It offers a reflexive approach to theoretical methodological practical and ethical issues of using these media now that they are increasingly being incorporated into field research Sarah Pink adopts the viewpoint that visual research methods should be rooted in a critical understanding of local and academic visual cultures the visual media and technologies being used and the ethical issues they raise The book demonstrates that these new challenges that shape ethnographic knowledge can be met by understanding the reflexivity and experience through which visual and ethnographic materials are produced and interpreted New to the Second Edition General updating of figures terminology and literature to bring the book up to date with recent innovations in theory practice and technology Annotated reading lists added to each chapter to guide the reader to further literature Completely rewritten chapter on digital technology to ensure the text is in line with the latest developments in technology and methodological thinking Drawing from her own experiences of using photography video and hypermedia in research as well as the work of others the author follows the research process from project design planning and implementing and practising fieldwork to analysis and representation suggesting how visual images and technologies can be combined to form an integrated process throughout the different stages of research The Second Edition of Doing Visual Ethnography is an excellent resource for students of sociology anthropology cultural studies media studies and those doing ethnographic and qualitative research It also provides valuable reading for researchers and postgraduates

Memories of the Origins of Ethnographic Film Beate Engelbrecht, 2007 Ethnographic Film which combines documentary filming and anthropological research originated in the late 19th century Early on anthropologists used film to record cultures Documentary filmmakers in the early 20th century developed different strategies with technical developments aiding further advances In the 1950s to 1970s intense debates among anthropologists filmmakers and artists many of whom met regularly at conferences and festivals took place on the methodology of ethnographic filmmaking Their discussions were handed on by word of mouth but rarely recorded or published In 2001 the pioneers of ethnographic film met in Gottingen and put together their recollections of the genre's Origins thus giving an unusual insight into the development of ethnographic film A
