Louisiana Native Guards The Black Milita:

The Louisiana Native Guards James G. Hollandsworth, Jr., 1995-12 Early in the Civil War Louisiana's Confederate government sanctioned a militia unit of black troops the Louisiana Native Guards Intended as a response to demands from members of New Orleans substantial free black population that they be permitted to participate in the defense of their state the unit was used by Confederate authorities for public display and propaganda purposes but was not allowed to fight After the fall of New Orleans General Benjamin F Butler brought the Native Guards into Federal military service and increased their numbers with runaway slaves He intended to use the troops for guard duty and heavy labor His successor Nathaniel P Banks did not trust the black Native Guard officers and as he replaced them with white commanders the mistreatment and misuse of the black troops steadily increased The first large scale deployment of the Native Guards occurred in May 1863 during the Union siege of Port Hudson Louisiana when two of their regiments were ordered to storm an impregnable hilltop position Although the soldiers fought valiantly the charge was driven back with extensive losses The white officers and the northern press praised the tenacity and fighting ability of the black troops but they were still not accepted on the same terms as their white counterparts After the war Native Guard veterans took up the struggle for civil rights in particular voting rights for Louisiana's black population The Louisiana Native Guards is the first account to consider that struggle By documenting their endeavors through Reconstruction James G Hollandsworth places the Native Guards military service in the broader context of a civil rights movement that predates more recent efforts by a hundred years This remarkable work presents a vivid picture of men eager to prove their courage and ability to a world determined to exploit and demean them

Louisiana Native Guards -Lib James G. Hollandsworth, 1998-08-01 Early in the Civil War Louisiana's Confederate government sanctioned a militia unit of black troops the Louisiana Native Guards Intended as a response to demands from members of New Orleans substantial free black population that they be permitted to participate in the defense of their state the unit was used by Confederate authorities for public display and propaganda purposes but was not allowed to fight After the fall of New Orleans General Benjamin F Butler brought the Native Guards into Federal military service and increased their numbers with runaway slaves He intended to use the troops for guard duty and heavy labor His successor Nathaniel P Banks did not trust the black Native Guard officers and as he replaced them with white commanders the mistreatment and misuse of the black troops steadily increased The first large scale deployment of the Native Guards occurred in May 1863 during the Union siege of Port Hudson Louisiana when two of their regiments were ordered to storm an impregnable hilltop position Although the soldiers fought valiantly the charge was driven back with extensive losses The white officers and the northern press praised the tenacity and fighting ability of the black troops but they were still not accepted on the same terms as their white counterparts After the war Native Guard veterans took up the struggle for civil rights in particular voting rights for Louisiana's black population The Louisiana Native Guards is the first account to consider that struggle By documenting their endeavors through Reconstruction James G Hollandsworth places the Native Guards military service in the broader context of a civil rights movement that predates more recent efforts by a hundred years This remarkable work presents a vivid picture of men eager to prove their courage and ability to a world determined to exploit and demean them As one of the Native Guard officers wrote his mother from Port Hudson in April 1864 Nobody really desires our success and it s uphill work

Intimate Partner Violence in New Orleans Ashley Baggett, 2017-10-13 Ashley Baggett uncovers the voices of abused women who utilized the legal system in New Orleans to address their grievances from the antebellum era to the end of the nineteenth century Poring over 26 000 records Baggett analyzes 421 criminal cases involving intimate partner violence physical or emotional abuse of a partner in a romantic relationship revealing a significant demand among women the community and the courts for reform in the postbellum decades Before the Civil War some challenges and limits to the male privilege of chastisement existed but the gendered power structure and the veil of privacy for families in the courts largely shielded abusers from criminal prosecution However the war upended gender expectations and increased female autonomy leading to the demand for and brief recognition of women s right to be free from violence Baggett demonstrates how postbellum decades offered a fleeting opportunity for change before the gender and racial expectations hardened with the rise of Jim Crow Her findings reveal previously unseen dimensions of women s lives both inside and outside legal marriage and women s attempts to renegotiate power in relationships Highlighting the lived experiences of these women Baggett tracks how gender race and location worked together to define and redefine gender expectations and legal rights Moreover she demonstrates recognition of women s legal personhood as well as differences between northern and southern states trajectories in response to intimate partner violence during the nineteenth century
