Lacan and Deleuze Bostjan Nedoh, 2016-10-26 It is often said that Lacan is the most radical representative of structuralism a thinker of negativity and alienation whereas Deleuze is pictured as a great opponent of the structuralist project a vitalist and a thinker of creative potentialities of desire It seems the two cannot be further apart This volume of 12 new essays breaks the myth of their foreignness if not hostility and places the two in a productive conversation By taking on topics such as baroque perversion death drive ontology topology face linguistics and formalism the essays highlight key entry points for a discussion between Lacan's and Deleuze's respective thoughts The proposed lines of investigation do not argue for a simple equation of their thoughts but for a disjunctive synthesis which acknowledges their differences while insisting on their positive and mutually informed reading

Confessions of the Nun of St Omer Lucy Cogan, 2016-02-12 Charlotte Dacre's debut novel Confessions of the Nun of St Omer 1805 was a bestseller in its day launching the career of a woman who would go on to become one of the nineteenth century's most notorious female novelists. The work tells the story of the wilful Cazire who recounts her passionate and destructive youthful adventures from the convent where she now lives in seclusion. Although Dacre's fame then and now rests largely on her sensationalist plots and portrayal of sexually self-possessed female villains, Confessions of the Nun of St Omer shows a different side to her writing: one that is engaged in the political debate surrounding the French Revolution and eager to uphold the conservative moral line. Indeed in many ways the novel strives to exemplify the moral and social orthodoxies of its time, dealing with themes of education, passion, seduction and the dangers of the radical new philosophy. Yet even at this early stage of her career the author's frank exploration of the power of female desire reveals a willingness to experiment with themes left untouched by more conventional Romantic era novelists: themes that would dominate her writing for years to come. This edition of Charlotte Dacre's book is based on the Chawton House Library copy of the text from 1805 and contains textual notes. The book will be of interest to those researching the Gothic women's writing and the development of the nineteenth century novel.

Drinking Party Plato, 2017-02-14 This new edition of Plato's Symposium provides beginning readers and scholars alike with a solid, reliable translation that is both faithful to the original text and accessible to contemporary readers. In addition, the volume offers a number of aids to help the reader make his or her way through this remarkable work. A concise introduction sets the scene, conveys the tenor of the dialogue, and introduces the reader to the main characters with a gloss on their backgrounds and a comment on their roles in the dialogue. It also provides a list of basic points for readers to keep in mind as they read the work. A thought-provoking interpretive essay offers reflections on the themes of the dialogue, focusing especially on the dialogue as drama. A select bibliography points to works both classic and contemporary that are especially relevant to readers of the Symposium. Two appendices consist of a line drawing that depicts the spatial layout and positioning of characters in the Symposium and a chart that shows the relation of the first six speeches to number, age, parentage, and the function of Eros. Blind Windows Edwina Levin MacDonald, 1927
