Ming China and Vietnam Kathlene Baldanza, 2016-03-29 Studies of Sino Viet relations have traditionally focused on Chinese aggression and Vietnamese resistance or have assumed out of date ideas about Sinicization and the tributary system They have limited themselves to national historical traditions doing little to reach beyond the border Ming China and Vietnam by contrast relies on sources and viewpoints from both sides of the border for a truly transnational history of Sino Viet relations Kathlene Baldanza offers a detailed examination of geopolitical and cultural relations between Ming China 1368 1644 and Dai Viet the state that would go on to become Vietnam She highlights the internal debates and external alliances that characterized their diplomatic and military relations in the pre modern period showing especially that Vietnamese patronage of East Asian classical culture posed an ideological threat to Chinese states Baldanza presents an analysis of seven linked biographies of Chinese and Vietnamese border crossers whose lives illustrate the entangled histories of those countries

Wang, 2012-08-23 Scholars of Daoism in the Ming dynasty 1368-1644 have paid particular attention to the interaction between the court and certain Daoist priests and to the political results of such interaction the focus has been on either emperors or Daoist masters Yet in the Ming era a special group of people patronized Daoism and Daoist establishments these were the members of the imperial clan who were enfeoffed as princes By illuminating the role the Ming princes played in local religion Richard G W Wang demonstrates in The Ming Prince and Daoism that the princedom served to mediate between official religious policy and the commoners' interests Locally the Ming princes played an important cultural role as well by promoting the development of local religions This book is the first to explore the interaction between Ming princes as religious patrons and local Daoism Barred by imperial law from any serious political or military engagement the Ming princes were ex officio managers of state rituals at the local level with Daoist priests as key performers Moreover institutionally most regular ceremonies related to a prince's life were mandated to be conducted by Daoist musician dancers and as a result the princely courtly rites were characterized by a Daoist flavor For this reason the princes became very closely involved in Daoist clerical and liturgical life
