Race, Romance, and Rebellion Colleen C. O'Brien,2013-10-07 As in many literatures of the New World grappling with issues of slavery and freedom stories of racial insurrection frequently coincided with stories of cross racial romance in nineteenth century U S print culture Colleen O'Brien explores how authors such as Harriet Jacobs Elizabeth Livermore and Gertrudis Gomez de Avellaneda imagined the expansion of race and gender based rights as a hemispheric affair drawing together the United States with Africa Cuba and other parts of the Caribbean Placing less familiar women writers in conversation with their more famous contemporaries Ralph Waldo Emerson Margaret Fuller and Lydia Maria Child O'Brien traces the transnational progress of freedom through the antebellum cultural fascination with cross racial relationships and insurrections Her book mines a variety of sources fiction political rhetoric popular journalism race science and biblical treatises to reveal a common concern a future in which romance and rebellion engender radical social and political transformation

Slavery, Capitalism, and Women's Literature Kristin Allukian, 2023-08-01 With Slavery Capitalism and Women's Literature Kristin Allukian makes an important contribution to slavery and capitalism scholarship by including the voices of some of the best known nineteenth century American women writers Women's literature offers crucial and previously unconsidered economic insights into the relationship between slavery and capitalism different from those we typically find in economics and economic histories Allukian demonstrates that because women's imaginative and creative texts take the material historical connection of slavery and capitalism as their starting point they can be read for the more speculative extensions of that connection extensions not possible to discover on a material historical level Indeed Allukian contends these authors and texts disclose unique economic insights critiques and theories in ways that are only possible through literary writing The writers featured in this study Harriet Beecher Stowe Lucy Larcom Harriet Jacobs and Frances Ellen Watkins Harper published written accounts of the continuities between slavery and capitalism including between language and activism accounting and sentimentalism labor and technology race and property and inheritance and reparations Their essays novels poems and autobiographies provided forums to document data stimulate debate generate resistance and imagine alternatives to the United States developing capitalist economy engendered and engineered by slavery Without their unique economic insights the national narrative we tell about the relationship between slavery and capitalism is incomplete
