The Development of the Italian Schools of Painting Raimond Van Marle, 2012-12-06 It is only in the last generation that lovers of art have recognized the special qualities of the 14th century Sienese school of painting and have found its graceful conventional drawing and its pleasing decorative effects not inferior to the realism and fidelity to nature praised in other periods The general admiration accorded to the subtle lyrical and aristocratic expression of abstract and spiritual conceptions which is the essence of Sienese painting gives us some hope for the future development of taste in Europe and for its artistic tendencies F Mason Perkins was the first to understand the aesthetic significance not only of the principal artists of this school but also of its minor members His numerous articles on the Little Masters have been of great assistance to me in my attempt to write as complete a history as was possible of Sienese painting in the 14th century I am only too glad to take this opportunity of paying homage to his profound knowledge and enthusiastic activity in this field of study Other names that deserve mention here are those of Mr Langton Douglas the annotator of Crowe and Cavalcaselle and author of many important studies including a History of Siena and of Dr G De Nicola Director of the National Museum Florence for among the many subjects with which he is conversant is the history of the Sienese school of painting on which he has written articles of great value The International Studio , 1928 Bulletin University of Georgia, 1908 Sessional Papers Canada.
