Minorities In American Higher Education Recent Trends Current Prospects And:

Minorities in American Higher Education ,1985      The Racial Crisis in American Higher Education William A. Smith, Philip G. Altbach, Kofi Lomotey, 2012-02-01 Why is it that as we enter the twenty first century the nation s predominantly white colleges and universities continue to be settings where people of color feel unwelcome and marginalized The contributors to this volume dissect a variety of structural and attitudinal factors that are prevalent in the higher education community organizational constructs and value orientations which seem to hark more to the past than to the future They comment on the political social and economic factors that have shaped academic culture and buttressed its quietly efficient maintenance of racially discriminatory practices The American system of higher education is often regarded as the best in the world Smith Altbach and Lomotey have edited a volume that implicitly asks how much better still it could be if it embraced people of color and provided them with a supportive and nurturing environment one which encouraged them to reach their fullest creative and intellectual potential Indeed this will probably be the most significant challenge that the academy faces in the twenty first century William B Harvey Vice President and Director Office of Minorities in Higher Education American Council on Education Washington D C      Demographic Trends and the Scientific and Engineering Work Force ,1987      Minority Student Retention Alan Seidman, 2019-05-23 Student retention continues to be a vexing problem for all colleges and universities In spite of the money spent on creating programs and services to help retain students until they achieve their academic and personal goals and graduate the figures have not improved over time This is particularly true for minority students who have a greater attrition rate than majority students Demographic information shows that the minority population in the United States is growing at a faster rate than the majority It is imperative that educational institutions find ways to help improve retention rates for all students but particularly minority students Retention rates should not differ appreciably among different racial ethnic groups The Journal of College Student Retention Research Theory and Practice is the only scholarly peer reviewed journal devoted solely to college student retention It has published many articles on minority student retention and this topic continues to garner much attention This book is a compilation of the very best of these articles selected on the basis of reviews by a cadre of experts in the education field The articles discuss African American Latino Latina Asian and Asian Pacific Native American and biracial students and institutional commitments to retaining a diverse student population For those interested in this vital area the collection will teach and inspire them to achieve greater heights and pay additional attention to retaining minority students in our colleges and universities

Museus,Dina C. Maramba,Robert T.

Teranishi,2023-07-03 While Asian Americans and Pacific Islanders AAPIs are growing faster than any other racial group in the U S they are all but invisible in higher education and generally ignored in the research literature and thus greatly misrepresented and misunderstood This book presents disaggregated data to unmask important academic achievement and other disparities within the population and offers new insights that promote more authentic understandings of the realities masked by the designation of AAPI In offering new perspectives conceptual frameworks and empirical research by seasoned and emerging scholars this book both makes a significant contribution to the emerging knowledge base on AAPIs and identifies new directions for future scholarship on this population Its overarching purpose is to provide policymakers practitioners and researchers in higher education with the information they need to serve an increasingly important segment of their student populations In dispelling such misconceptions as that Asian Americans are not really racial minorities the book opens up the complexity of the racial and ethnic minorities within this group and identifies the unique challenges that require the attention of anyone in higher education concerned with student access and success as well as the pipeline to the professoriate      Retaining African Americans in Higher Education Lee Jones,2023-07-21 Retention of African Americans on campus is a burning issue for the black community and a moral and financial one for predominantly white institutions of higher education This book offers fresh insights and new strategies developed by fifteen scholars concerned by the new climate in which affirmative action is being challenged and eliminated This is the first book devoted specifically to retention of African Americans in higher education and is unique in addressing the distinct but inter related concerns of all three affected constituencies students faculty and administrators Each is considered in a separate section The student section shifts attention from to paraphrase McNairy fixing the student to focussing on higher education s need to examine and where appropriate revise policies curriculum support services and campus climate Responding to the new agenda shaped by the opponents of affirmative action but rejecting the defensive x percent solutions espoused by its proponents this book puts forward new solutions that will provoke debate Section II begins with a survey of the literature on African American administrators and presents a Delphi study of twelve administrators to provide an understanding of pathways and barriers to success The contributors then consider the importance of developing community support and creating alliances the role of mentoring and the setting of clear expectations between the individual and the institution Starting with the recognition that African Americans represent less than five percent of full time faculty the chapters in the final section examine the effects of the dismantling of affirmative action the consequences of faculty salaries trailing more lucrative non academic employment the declining enrollment of students of color the politics of promotion and tenure and issues of identity and culture The book concludes by stressing the roles that parents faculty and administrators must play to empower African American students to take responsibility for their own academic performance This is a compelling controversial and constructive contribution to an issue of national importance Future Survey Annual 1983 Michael Marien,1984-01-01

Resources in Education ,2001-04 Progress of Education in the United States of America ,1972 Racial and Cultural Minorities George Eaton Simpson,J. Milton Yinger,2013-06-29 We need scarcely note that the topic of this book is the stuff of headlines Around the world political economic educational military religious and social relations of every variety have a racial or ethnic component One cannot begin to understand the history or contemporary situation of the United States the Soviet Union China Zimbabwe South Africa Great Britain Lebanon Mexico Canada indeed almost any land without careful attention to the influence of cultural and racial divisions Preparation of this new edition has brought a strong sense of deja vu with regard both to the persistence of old patterns of discrimination even if in new guises and also to the persistence of limited and constraining explanations We have also found however rich new empirical studies new theoretical perspectives and greatly expanded activity and analyses from members of minority groups Although this edition is an extensive revision with reference both to the data used and the theoretical approaches examined we have not shifted from our basically analytical perspective We strongly support efforts to reduce discrimination and prejudice but these can be successful only if we try to understand where we are and what forces are creating the existing situation We hope to reduce the tendency to use declarations and condemnations of other persons actions as substitutes for an investigation of their causes and consequences Progress of Education in the United States of America 1980-81 Through 1982-83 United States. The Broken Cisterns of African American Education M. Christopher Brown,RoSusan D. Bartee,2008-12-01 The failure of American education to achieve racial diversity has resulted from the inability of educational researchers policy makers and judicial officials to disentangle the complex definitions that have emerged in a post segregated society More specifically the capricious aim of post segregated educational settings leads to the confusing and often conflicting interchangeable usage of terms desegregated integrated and diversity This ambiguity is further confounded by the imprecise definitions of equity equality and opportunity The proposed book will examine the role of language post Brown v Board of Education and the effects of that language on educational policy and practice He also examines how the fundamental implications of language within post Brown court cases in pre through post secondary education demonstrate the unspecified outcomes for desegregation and integration while concomitantly demand an educational continuum of equitable distribution The arguments will further interrogate how education policy and practices implicitly contain a scholarly roadmap to forge equal opportunity and access fifty years after Brown

African American Males and Education T. Elon Dancy II,M. Christopher Brown,2012-10-01 African American Males in Education Researching the Convergence of Race and Identity addresses a number of research gaps This book emerges at a time when new social dynamics of race and other identities are shaping but also shaped by education Educational settings consistently perpetuate racial and other forms of privilege among students personnel and other participants in education For instance differential access to social networks still visibly cluster by race continuing the work of systemic privilege by promoting outcome inequalities in education and society The issues defining the relationship between African American males and education remain complex Although there has been substantial discussion about the plight of African American male participants and personnel in education only modest attempts have been made to center analysis of identity and identity intersections in the discourse Additionally more attention to African American male teachers and faculty is needed in light of their unique cultural experiences in educational settings and expectations to mentor and or socialize other African Americans particularly males

Clearing the Path for First-Generation College Students Bedelia Nicola Richards,Ashley C. Rondini,Nicolas P. Simon,2018-06-07 Clearing the Path for First Generation College Students comprises a wide range of studies that explore the multidimensional social processes and meanings germane to the experiences of first generation college students before and during their matriculation into institutions of higher education The chapters offer timely empirical examinations of the ways that these students negotiate experiences shaped by structural inequities in higher education institutions and the pathways that lead to them This volume provides insight into the dilemmas that arise from the transformation of students class identities in pursuit of upward mobility as well as their quest for community and a sense of belonging on college campuses that have not been historically designed for them While centering first generation status this collection also critically engages the ways in which other dimensions of social identity intersect to inform students educational experiences in relation to dynamics of race ethnicity socioeconomic class gender and immigration Additionally this book takes a holistic approach by exploring the ways in which first generation college students are influenced by and engage with their families and communities of origin as they undertake their educational careers
