Multiculturalism and Immigration in Canada Elspeth Cameron,2004 Multiculturalism in Canada offers a solid introduction to the history and development of the ideology of multiculturalism in Canada This ideology which has become the primary designator of Canadian society began in the early 1970s when vocal elements in the population who were neither English nor French strongly responded to the investigations of the Committee on Bilingualism and Biculturalism Given Canada's early racist tendencies the establishment of multiculturalism was a remarkable shift in public thinking Many issues associated with immigration have arisen in the public debates around multiculturalism Some people are convinced that it is a pernicious ideology that enforces the ghettoisation of those different from the mainstream Others see dangers in the way some aspects of multiculturalism are merely tokens of an all inclusive society Still others contend that the voices of ethnicities aside from those of the two charter groups English and French are scarcely heard and that worse those marginalised voices are appropriated by mainstream writers On the whole however Canadians especially younger Canadians welcome a liberal outlook that is inclusive of a wide variety of ethnicities For them and for many immigrants Canada is a society that is multiple and layered one rich in meaning They tend to see Canada as a microcosm of the larger world one that presents a useful model of tolerance for the world at large Increasingly marginalised new Canadians are excelling in the arts communities telling all Canadians what various aspects of the culture shock of transplantation feels like This book includes a representative sample of their works

Muslims, Minorities, and the Media Laurens de Rooij, 2023-03-01 Inspired by overtly negative coverage by the Western mainstream press of Muslims in particular and minorities in general this book asks Why are negative narratives and depictions of Muslims and other minorities so hard to change News reports about Islam and Muslims commonly relate stories that discuss terrorism violence or other unwelcome or irrational behaviour or the lack of integration and compatibility of Muslims and Islam with Western values and society Yet there is little research done on how studies on media reports about minorities seemingly fail to improve the situation Combining empirical research with a structural analysis of the media industry this volume presents evidence for the maligned representation of minorities by media corporations analysing why negative narratives persist and outlining how these can be effectively transformed It is an outstanding resource for students and scholars of media religion culture sociology and Islamic studies and is also of benefit for journalists media representatives and activists looking to effect change for minority representation in the media industry specifically or in society at large

Electing a Diverse Canada Caroline Andrew, John Biles, Myer Siemiatycki, Erin Tolley, 2009-07-01 Electing a Diverse Canada presents the most extensive analysis to date of the electoral representation of immigrants minorities and women in Canada Covering eleven cities as well as Canada's Parliament it breaks new ground by assessing the representation of diverse identity groups across multiple levels of government The book begins by introducing the literature on electoral representation and the main concepts and frameworks underlying research on immigrants women and minorities Using survey and census data its chapters provide snapshots of officials elected at municipal provincial and federal levels and compares these to portraits of the general population The volume concludes by reviewing key findings and discussing patterns of over and under representation in Canadian government Electoral representation is an important indicator of a democracy's health yet there is limited research on how well elected representatives reflect the characteristics of voters. Electing a Diverse Canada provides a baseline for future research not only by assessing electoral representation but also by outlining key challenges impeding the future health of Canadian democracy. The Changing Face of Canada

Roderic P. Beaujot, Donald W. Kerr, 2007. Canadian society is rapidly changing. This concise up-to-date volume masterfully captures this change. Edited by two of Canada's leading demographers, Roderic Beaujot and Don Kerr, this book is an exciting entry in Canadian population studies, drawing from a variety of disciplines including sociology, geography, economics, history, and epidemiology. The Changing Face of Canada is an essential text for demography courses across the country. Each reading has been meticulously edited and concisely ordered into five essential sections: fertility, mortality, international migration, domestic migration, and population distribution. Population aging, population composition, vital issues, include the role of immigration in Canada's future, the deteriorating economic welfare of immigrants, globalization, undocumented migration, and unwanted refugees, Aboriginal population change, implications of unprecedented low fertility, and the astonishing demographic transformation of Canadian cities. Multiculturalism and Social Cohesion

Jeffrey G. Reitz, Raymond Breton, Karen Kisiel Dion, Kenneth L. Dion, 2009-04-05. Does multiculturalism work? Does multiculturalism policy create social cohesion or undermine it? Multiculturalism was introduced in Canada in the 1970s and widely adopted internationally but more recently has been hotly debated amid new concerns about social, cultural, and political impacts of immigration. Advocates praise multiculturalism for its emphasis on special recognition for cultural minorities as facilitating their social integration, while opponents charge that multiculturalism threatens social cohesion by encouraging social isolation. Multiculturalism is thus rooted in a theory of human behaviour, and this book examines the empirical validity of some of its basic propositions, focusing on Canada as the country for which the most enthusiastic claims for multiculturalism have been made. The analysis draws on the massive national Ethnic Diversity Survey of over 41,000 Canadians in 2002, the most extensive survey yet conducted on this question. The analysis provides a new and more nuanced understanding of the complex relation between multiculturalism and social cohesion, challenging uncritically optimistic or pessimistic views. Ethnic community ties facilitate some aspects of social integration while discouraging others. For racial minorities, relations within and outside minority communities are greatly complicated by more frequent experiences of discrimination and inequality, slowing processes of social integration. Implications for multicultural policies emphasize that race relations present important challenges across Quebec and the rest of Canada, including for the new religious minorities, and that ethnic community development requires more explicit support for social integration. Consciousness and Inquiry Frank Manning, 1983-01-01. The papers in this volume were prepared for Consciousness and Inquiry, a conference jointly sponsored by the National Museum of Man and the Canadian Ethnology Society and held in London, Ontario, in 1981. The papers focus on interests and concerns which characterize contemporary Canadian ethnology. Published in English.
