Staging the Artist Claire Moran, 2017-07-05 Restoring the role of theatrical performance as both subject and trope in the aesthetics of self representation Staging the Artist questions how nineteenth century French and Belgian artists self consciously fashioned their identities through their art and writings This emphasis on performance allows for a new understanding of the processes of self fashioning which underlie self representation in word and image Claire Moran offers new interpretations of works by major nineteenth century figures such as Paul Gauguin and Edgar Degas and addresses the neglected topic of the function of theatre in the development of modern visual art Incarnating Baudelaire s metaphor of the artist as an actor ever conscious of his role the artists discussed Courbet Ensor and Van Gogh among others employed theatre as both a thematic source and formal inspiration in their painting writings and social behaviour Moran argues that what renders this visual literary and social performance modern is its self consciousness which in turn serves as a model with which to challenge pictorial convention This book suggests that tracing modern performance and artistic identity to the nineteenth century provides a greater understanding not only of the significance of theatre in the development of modern art but also highlights the self conscious staging inherent to modern artistic identity

Sill, Roberta K. Tarbell, 1992 Readers of Walt Whitman have long been aware of the visual qualities of his writing but there is no book that documents the actual influences on him or as important the influence Whitman had on American art painting photography architecture sculpture The contributors to this collection the first full length study of this topic outline the influences of Jean Francois Millet and Gustave Courbet on Whitman showing the common purposes shared in their art in their attention to the working man and in their internationalist perspective even in a rough comparability in styles across different media Other essays discuss the relationship between Whitman and Thomas Eakins who painted and photographed Whitman and who created the image or iconography of Whitman as we know him Whitman and Louis Sullivan and the development of a naturalistic vocabulary of decorative ornament and on Whitman and the realists of the so called Ash Can School There is also an essay on Whitman and the sculptor Mahonri Young What these last essays especially Matthew Baigell's on progressive artists of the early twentieth century show us quite clearly is that like most myths the myth of Whitman as the lone voice crying in the wilderness will not stand up to scrutiny No one who reads these essays can come away from them without being convinced that the poet's was a prominent and controversial voice among many all crying out for the same thing a reassessment of what constitutes the American subject and the American style A to Z of American Women in the Visual Arts Carol Kort, Liz Sonneborn, 2014-05-14 Presents biographical profiles of American women of achievement in the field of visual arts including birth and death dates major accomplishments and historical influence Stories and Portraits of the Self Helena Carvalhão Buescu, João Ferreira Duarte, 2007 In contemporary societies privatization has long ceased to be just an economic concept rather it must increasingly be made to refer to the ongoing shrinking of the public space under the impact of the representation of individual lives and images which cuts across all discourses genres and media to become one of the primary means of production of culture This volume is intended to cover such an historical social and intellectual ground where self representation comes to the fore Targeting mostly an academic readership but certainly also of interest to the general educated public it collects a wide range of essays dealing with diverse modes of life writing and portraying from a variety of perspectives and focusing on different historical periods and media It thus offers itself as a major contribution to a better understanding of the world we live in its past legacy and present configuration Contents Introduction Signposts of the Self in Modernity Part I The Representational Dilemma Christopher PRENDERGAST The Self as a Work of Art Proust's Scepticism Paulo DE MEDEIROS Re Constructing Re Membering Postcolonial Selves Aleksandra PODSIADLIK Doing Identity
