A City of Marble Kathleen S. Lamp, 2013-10-15 In A City of Marble Kathleen Lamp argues that classical rhetorical theory shaped the Augustan cultural campaigns and that in turn the Augustan cultural campaigns functioned rhetorically to help Augustus gain and maintain power and to influence civic identity and participation in the Roman Principate 27 b c e 14 c e Lamp begins by studying rhetorical treatises those texts most familiar to scholars of rhetoric and moves on to those most obviously using rhetorical techniques in visual form She then arrives at those objects least recognizable as rhetorical artifacts but perhaps most significant to the daily lives of the Roman people coins altars wall painting This progression also captures the development of the Augustan political myth that Augustus was destined to rule and lead Rome to greatness as a descendant of the hero Aeneas A City of Marble examines the establishment of this myth in state rhetoric traces its circulation and finally samples its popular receptions and adaptations In doing so Lamp inserts a long excluded though significant audience the common people of Rome into contemporary understandings of rhetorical history and considers Augustan culture as significant in shaping civic identity encouraging civic participation and promoting social advancement Lamp approaches the relationship between classical rhetoric and Augustan culture through a transdisciplinary methodology drawn from archaeology art and architectural history numismatics classics and rhetorical studies By doing so she grounds Dionysius of Halicarnassus's claims that the Principate represented a renaissance of rhetoric rooted in culture and a return to an Isocratean philosophical model of rhetoric thus offering a counterstatement to the decline narrative that rhetorical practice withered in the early Roman Empire Thus Lamp's work provides a step toward filling the disciplinary gap between Cicero and the Second Sophistic Hitler's State Architecture Alex Scobie, 1990 Adolf Hitler admired ancient Rome as the crystallization point of a world empire a capital with massive public monuments that reflected the supremacy of the State and the political might of the ancient world's master race He also admired the way Mussolini turned the monuments of imperial Rome into validating symbols of Fascism Hitler planned a Reich that would be as durable as the Roman Empire Its capital Berlin would surpass the architectural magnificence of ancient Rome before the advent of Christianity as its official religion This book examines Hitler's views on Roman imperialism town planning and architecture and shows how Albert Speer though a self-confessed student of Doric architecture planned and sometimes built structures that were intended to rival such monuments as Nero's Golden House Hadrian's Pantheon and the Stadium of Herodes Atticus at Athens Other architects such as Ludwig Ruff and Carl Pinnau were to plan structures inspired by the Colosseum and the Baths of

Caracalla The ancient Roman obsession with order discipline and the domination of the environment is clearly reflected in the town plans and public buildings conceived by Hitler and his architects We see that neoclassical state architecture in Nazi Germany was intended to signify more than stability and the persistence of tradition It was only one aspect of the Nazi attempt to re create a pagan totalitarian state based on clearly defined forms of hierarchy that divided society into slaves and slave owners those with and those without human rights

Housing the New Romans Katharine T. von Stackelberg, Elizabeth Macaulay-Lewis, 2017-06-01 In the last twenty years reception studies have significantly enhanced our understanding of the ways in which Classics has shaped modern Western culture but very little attention has been directed toward the reception of classical architecture Housing the New Romans Architectural Reception and Classical Style in the Modern World addresses this gap by investigating ways in which appropriation and allusion facilitated the reception of Classical Greece and Rome through the requisition and redeployment of classicizing tropes to create neo Antique sites of dwelling in the 19th and early 20th centuries The volume across nine essays will cover both European and American iterations of place making including Sir John Soanes house in London the Hotel de Beauharnais in Paris and the Getty Villa in California By focusing on structures and places that are oriented towards private life houses hotels clubs tombs and gardens the volume directs the critical gaze towards diverse and complex sites of curatorial self fashioning The goal of the volume is to provide a multiplicity of interpretative frameworks e g object agency enchantment hyperreality memory infrastructure that may be applied to the study of architectural reception This critical approach makes Housing the New Romans the first work of its kind in the emerging field of architectural and landscape reception studies and in the hitherto textually dominated field of classical reception

Rome the Cosmopolis Catharine Edwards, Greg Woolf, 2006-11-02 Rome stands today for an empire and for a city The essays gathered in this volume explore some of the many ways in which the two were interwoven Rome was fed beautified and enriched by empire just as it was swollen polluted infected and occupied by it Empire was paraded in the streets of Rome and exhibited in the city s buildings Empire also made the city ineradicably foreign polyglot an alien capital and a focus for un Roman activities The city was where the Roman cosmos was most concentrated and so was most

Theophilos, 2019-11-28 Michael P Theophilos explores the fascinating variety of numismatic contributions to Greek lexicography pertaining to lexicographic studies of the Second Temple period in general and the New Testament in particular Theophilos considers previous scholarly attempts to grapple with and incorporate critical numismatic material into the emerging discipline of Greek lexicography including foundational work by F Preisigke and E Kiessling before outlining his own methodological approach Theophilos then examines the resources available for engaging with the numismatic material and presents a series of specific case studies throughout the New Testament material His carefully annotated images of coins draw readers in to a greater understanding of the material culture of the Greco Roman world and how this impacted upon the Greek language and the New Testament The First

Constitution Alex Imrie approaches the famous edict of AD 212 from numerous angles offering an assessment of its rationale that is rooted in the dynamic period of the early third century Controversial since its discovery it is depicted here as a keystone in Caracalla's attempt to revolutionise the public image of the Severan dynasty after murdering his brother There is an inherent paradox between the apparently progressive nature of the edict and the volatile emperor responsible for it The enigma is only heightened by a dearth of ancient evidence relating to the legislation By combining literary and material evidence with the surviving papyrological record Alex Imrie shows that Caracalla's rationale is best understood in an embedded context

Y Max Ostrovsky, 2007 Combining history archaeology sociology political science and agricultural studies Y Arctg X The Hyperbola of the World Order presents a theory claiming that any political system with a firm agricultural foundation is pre destined to reach political unity and turn this state into the norm Using the circumscription theory the idea that the phenomenon of political unification was most explicit in areas of the world where agricultural land was in short supply and exhaustive historical evidence this timely work proposes the emergence of a single world state
