In the Name of Love Aharon Ben-Ze'ev, Ruhama Goussinsky, 2008 We yearn to experience the idealized love in so many novels movies poems and popular songs Ironically it is the idealization of love that arms it with its destructive power Popular media consistently remind us that love is all we need but statistics concerning the rate of depression and suicides after divorce or romantic break up remind us what might happen if all that we need is taken away This book is about our ideals of love our experiences of love the actual disparity between the two and the manners of coping with this disparity L A major study case of the book concerns men who have murdered their wives or partners allegedly out of love It is estimated that over 30% of all female murder victims in the United States die at the hands of former or present spouses or boyfriends How can murdering a loved one be associated with the assumed moral and altruistic love Not only is love intrinsically ambivalent but it can also give rise to dangerous consequences Some of the worst evils have been committed in the name of love L A unique collaboration between a leading philosopher in the field of emotions and a social scientist In the Name of Love presents fascinating insights into romantic love and its future in modern society

The results indicate that the conceptual structure associated with these emotions consists of four parts 1 a system of metaphors 2 a system of metonymies 3 a system of related concepts and 4 a category of cognitive models with a prototypical model in the center This goes against an influential view of the structure of concepts in linguistics psychology anthropology according to which the structure of a concept can be represented by a small number of sense components
