Brain Cholinergic Mechanisms Sukumar Vijayaraghavan, Geeta Sharma, 2016-01-22 Much of our understanding of brain physiology has focused on what one might call first order processes These essentially include the primary synaptic mechanisms underlying excitation mainly glutamate and inhibition mainly GABA Our attention has focused on how the balance of excitation and inhibition regulates the timing patterns and extent of information flow across various circuits A lot less is understood regarding second order processes that sculpt and modify these primary interactions One such modulatory transmitter in the brain is acetylcholine ACh The importance of ACh in modulating various behaviors related to learning memory and attention has been recognized over the last four decades as has its involvement in various neurodegenerative and psychiatric disorders However our understanding of the mechanistic bases for these actions is at its infancy at best and much remains to be understood The array of receptor subtypes for nicotinic and muscarinic receptors their different locations and complex signal transduction mechanisms remain a puzzle Transmitter ACh release sites and their relationship to receptor loci are poorly understood Overall we lack a unifying framework for conceptualizing how disparate actions of the transmitter on receptors lead to circuit modulation and eventually influences on cognition By its very nature reports on cholinergic signaling are quite scattered presented in journals across sub disciplines and in the context of the systems they modulate Hence there is need for consolidation of these studies under a single cover that would allow one to compare and contrast the effects of this transmitter across systems and contexts This special issue represents one such compilation The issue addresses cholinergic modulation of defined circuits that lead to specific behaviors and consists of a judicious mixture of review articles and primary papers The articles focus on three aspects of the system 1 Cellular targets of cholinergic signaling 2 Receptor mechanisms 3 Endogenous transmitter distribution and action While no common mechanism emerges that can explain cholinergic actions on brain functions one can postulate that the transmitter system is dynamic modulating the balance of excitation and inhibition in various circuits This modulation sets up timed network oscillations and it is tempting to speculate that these oscillations form a template for better encoding of afferent inputs One can broadly envision the role of the cholinergic system as facilitating processes that allow for more efficient acquisition of learning and engraving of memories Thus understanding the mechanisms underlying tonic and stimulus dependent release of ACh and how it alters firing templates of neuronal networks would be the first step towards elucidating its role in learning and memory This special topics edition provides clues to some of the actions of ACh It is hoped that the articles allow the reader to extract common themes and potential mechanisms of cholinergic regulation that will lead to elucidation of general principles governing the actions of this important neuromodulator
