Writing Along Broken Lines Otto Heim, 1998 Covering the two decades from 1972 Swiss scholar Otto Heim presents detailed readings of the novels and short fiction by Heretaunga Pat Baker Alan Duff Patricia Grace Keri Hulme Witi Ihimaera Bruce Stewart J C Sturm Apirana Taylor and Ngahuia Te Awekotuku His book places the fiction by Maori writers in the context of a culture of survival and traces its textual engagement with violence between empathy and sacrifice from the privacy of domestic violence to the public arenas of systemic violence and war He argues that out of this confrontation with violence emerges a distinctive ethnic world view created by the construction of individual experience the development of an ideological stance and the expression of a spiritual orientation Heim's analysis shows works of fiction by contemporary Maori writers as challenging explorations of the constraints placed on the literary imagination by the urgent facts of the human condition and the imperatives of culture

Think of a Garden and Other Plays John Kneubuhl, 1997-04-01 By his own reckoning John Kneubuhl was the world s greatest Swiss Welsh Samoan playwright The son of a Samoan mother and an American father Kneubuhl's multicultural heritage produced a distinctive artistic vision that formed the basis of his most powerful dramatic work Born and raised in Samoa Kneubuhl attended school in Honolulu and studied under Thornton Wilder at Yale Returning to Hawai'i in the mid 1940s Kneubuhl won acclaim as a playwright with the Honolulu Community Theater then moved on to Los Angeles to write for television Twenty years later he was back in Samoa lecturing on Polynesian history and culture and writing plays including the trilogy offered here Unlike much of Kneubuhl's earlier work these plays are touchingly personal in their exploration of alienation and cultural identity Think of a Garden the first play of the trilogy and the last written before the playwright's death in 1992 has been called the most Samoan of Kneubuhl's plays a candid look at the writer's bicultural upbringing that artfully weaves together family memory history and mysticism Think of a Garden makes the work of one of the Pacific's preeminent playwrights available for the first time to a wide audience of theatre enthusiasts literature specialists and others interested in Pacific themes

Frederick's Coat Alan Duff, 2013-08-02 From the author of the best selling Once Were Warriors a powerful story of love between father and son of contrasting ways of looking at the world and of revenge When Johnno comes out of prison he resolves never to go back again But his new life is not easy especially as he soon finds himself in sole charge of his strange young son Danny Danny isn't the kind of son he would have chosen but in caring for the boy Johnno finds new meaning and new direction But what do you do when the world you've so carefully built comes crashing down Can you ever escape your past This is a return to the world of criminals and violence that Alan has written about so effectively in the past but it is also a touching exploration of the relationship between father and son What Becomes of the Broken Hearted? Alan Duff, 2014-03-07 The prize winning passionate and uncompromising sequel to the blistering classic novel Once Were Warriors She always came the following day for a second visit on this yearly remembering in fact Polly Heke came several times a year and had done for the last two from when she herself hit the same age as Grace'd been when she uh when she killed herself

The searing power of Alan Duff's masterpiece Once Were Warriors rocked a nation and was acclaimed around the world. What Becomes of the Broken Hearted is the challenging poetic sequel taking up the story of the Heke family six years after Grace's suicide. The novel won the Montana New Zealand Book Award for Fiction and was made into a film Voyaging Through the Contemporary Pacific. David Hanlon, Geoffrey M. White, 2000-11-08. The Pacific has long been a site for debates over disciplinary approaches and the ethics and politics of research within neocolonial and postcolonial contexts. This volume makes a significant contribution to these debates and to the related and ongoing exchanges concerning area studies, the globalization of capitalism and its attendant cultural, social and political effects. In so doing, the authors link work from the Pacific with theoretical and methodological issues raised in other areas of the globe. This collection of the best from Contemporary Pacific will prove invaluable to scholars, students and all interested in the study of history, culture and identity in the Pacific and in post-colonial societies everywhere.

Summary of Alan Duff's A Conversation with my Country

Everest Media, 2022-05-24T22:59:00Z. Please note: This is a companion version, not the original book. Sample Book Insights 1. The internet meme about an audio experiment that played a single word to test subjects is an example of a perceptually ambiguous stimulus that can be seen in two ways. 2. I have had a conversation with this country for about 30 years. I have written many books which have polarized people, but I continue to explore ideas and provoke discussion. The alternative is to do nothing and let chaos and anarchy rule. 3. I had moved to Waipukurau in Central Hawke's Bay following my wife's appointment to head a hospital center for the disabled. I had quit smoking, set up a Chinese takeaway shop and was determined to write and get my first novel published. 4. I began to write the book in 1989 and it took me twelve drafts to complete. The book was about an all too typical Maori family, the Hekes, ruled by the iron fists of a drunken father, Jake. The Muss Jake had voluntarily tossed in his job and gone on welfare because he figured he got only 17 a week less than he did in employment. Come on Shore and We Will Kill and Eat You All. Christina Thompson, 2011-07-01. A book that perfectly balances memoir and history, interweaving a cross-cultural love story with the larger history of the colonial encounter. A highly unusual blend of personal memoir, travel writing and anthropology. Lynne Truss, Sunday Times. This book stands out because of its sharp, fine writing, strong and compulsive. New Statesman. Come On Shore and We Will Kill And Eat You All is a sensitive and vibrant portrayal of the cultural collision between Westerners and Maoris from Abel Tasman's discovery of New Zealand in 1642 to the author's unlikely romance with a Maori man. An intimate account of two centuries of friction and fascination, this intriguing and unpredictable book weaves a path through time and around the world in a rich exploration of the past and the future that it leads to. Sons for the Return Home. Albert Wendt, 1996-06-30. Originally published in 1973, this story of star-crossed lovers spotlights the complex nature of love, freedom and racism in New Zealand. Samoan writer Albert Wendt's first novel, Sons for the Return Home, has long been out of print. Yet readers continue to respond to the clarity of vision in this simple, powerful story of cross-cultural encounter.
