Human Factors Research Needs for an Aging Population National Research Council, Division of Behavioral and Social Sciences and Education, Board on Human-Systems Integration, Committee on Human Factors, Panel on Human Factors Research Issues for an Aging Population, 1990-02-01 This book describes the demographic sociological and ecological background of the aging society identifies human factors problems associated with aging summarizes currently relevant information and recommends directions for research It suggests a program of research and technology development for the purpose of ameliorating the effects of functional changes that accompany the aging process and provides a basis for additional research and application of human factors engineering data to the design of environments in which aging people must function

Handbook of Research on Economic and Social Impacts of Population Aging Bayar, Yilmaz, 2021-06-25 The increases in global wealth and the developments in the field of health have led to decreases in mortality rates increases in life expectancy and decreases in fertility rate leading to a population that is rapidly consisting more and more of older individuals The demographic changes affect nearly all parts of society including economics education health social security systems socio cultural activities and more Thus it is essential to study the impacts that an aging population will have on society The Handbook of Research on Economic and Social Impacts of Population Aging analyzes the economic and social impacts of population aging from a multidisciplinary perspective Covering topics such as life expectancy social welfare health social security and more this book is essential for social scientists sociologists demographers economists medical professionals government officials policymakers professionals researchers managers students and academicians looking to understand the effects of an aging population on modern society

Improving Data on America's Aging Population National Research Council, Division of Behavioral and Social Sciences and Education, Commission on Behavioral and Social Sciences and Education, Committee on National Statistics, 1996-12-20 The Committee on National Statistics and the Committee on Population at the request of the NIA convened a workshop in March 1996 to discuss data on the aging population that address the emerging and important social economic and health conditions of the older population The purposes of the workshop were to identify how the population at older ages in the next few decades will differ from the older population today to understand the underlying causes of those changes to anticipate future problems and policy issues and to suggest future needs for data for research in these areas The scope of the workshop was broader than that of the 1988 CNSTAT report including not only data on health and long term care but also actuarial economic demographic housing and epidemiological data needs for informing public policy

Preparing for the Challenges of Population Aging in Asia Science Council of Japan, National Research Council, Indonesian Academy of Sciences, Chinese Academy of Social Sciences, 2011-01-08

Preparing for the Challenges of Population Aging in Asia discusses the challenges posed by a rapidly aging population and identifies needed research to help policymakers better respond to them While the percentage of elderly people in nearly every nation is growing this aging trend is particularly stark in parts of Asia Projections indicate that the portion of the population age 65 and older will more than triple in China India and Indonesia and more than double in Japan between 2000 and 2050 based on data from the United Nations Moreover this demographic shift is coinciding with dramatic economic and social changes in Asia including changing family structures and large scale migrations from rural to urban areas These trends raise critical questions about how nations can develop policies that best support health and economic well being in large and growing populations at older ages Governments in Asia still have time to determine the best ways to respond to the unfolding demographic transformation but taking advantage of this window of opportunity will require new research to shed light on the status and needs of the aging population Currently the research base on aging in this region is relatively underdeveloped This book identifies several key topics for research to inform public policy including changing roles in the family labor force participation income and savings and health and well being of the public

The Ageing Population N.E.J. Wells, Charles Freer, 1988-03-01

Meeting the Challenge of an Ageing Population University of Southampton. Centre for Research on Ageing, Preparing for an Aging World National Research Council, Division of Behavioral and Social Sciences and Education, Committee on National Statistics, Committee on Population, Panel on a Research Agenda and New Data for an Aging World, 2001-06-26

Aging is a process that encompasses virtually all aspects of life Because the speed of population aging is accelerating and because the data needed to study the aging process are complex and expensive to obtain it is imperative that countries coordinate their research efforts to reap the most benefits from this important information

Preparing for an Aging World looks at the behavioral and socioeconomic aspects of aging and focuses on work retirement and pensions wealth and savings behavior health and disability intergenerational transfers and concepts of well being It makes recommendations for a collection of new cross national data on aging populations data that will allow nations to develop policies and programs for addressing the major shifts in population age structure now occurring These efforts if made internationally would advance our understanding of the aging process around the world
