ABSTRACT

The study examined impact of religious education on pupils' behaviour in the selected secondary schools in Lusaka district, Zambia. Specific objectives were; (a) To assess effectiveness of teaching religious education in secondary schools, (b) To establish the relationship between religious education syllabus and shaping pupil moral development, (c) To determine whether the Zambian government has policy framework interventions that support the role of religious education in building Zambia as a Christian. In order to meet the objective, descriptive and explanatory research design was used. Both qualitative and quantitative research approach were used to analyze and interpret data. Data was collected through oral interviews, questionnaires and observations. Furthermore, contributions by some Pentecostal churches and other religious were of importance to the education sector. The study sampled head teachers, teachers of religious studies and pupils of religious education. The sample size for the study was 100 respondents. The findings of the study were that values and practices helps progress in education. The role of Religious Education prepares learners to be morally upright and influences them to fear God and respect fellow human beings. Additionally, the findings revealed that the teaching of religious education is a critical component that enables the school going youth to acquire morality by instilling the right attitudes for social obligations and responsibilities in the society. Based on conclusions of this study, the researchers came up with the following recommendations; Religious Education should be taught in all secondary schools and Zambia at large due to its power to reduce frequency of disciplinary cases in schools, to impart practical ability for learners to discriminate between right and wrong and choose what is right in day-to-day life. The other recommendation is that the government of Zambia and other related agencies should train more Religious Education teachers as the increase of RE teachers will make it possible for the subject to be taught across secondary schools.

INTRODUCTION

One of the critical needs of any society is education. Education is the process of facilitating learning, or the acquisition of knowledge, skills, values, morals beliefs and habits (Musaku, 2019). The role of education in the transformation of lives is acknowledged by Wright (1993). UNESCO believes that education is a human right for all throughout life and that access must be matched by quality. From early in a child's life, education is provided through the process of socialization.

Childhood socialization enables a child to assimilate the desired behaviour patterns of a particular society. Although informal education happens without deliberate planning, society has from time immemorial deliberately structured the learning process to ensure that desired outcomes are achieved. Master ton (2017), expresses the words of Plato and argues that education and admonition commence in the first years of childhood and last to the very end of life. This simply means that equipping children with the right foundation in education commences at the very early stages of a child's life. There are many different experiences that a family, community or a society can provide, but education tends to be the centralized focus where children must experience to stand on the right foundation in their lives.

One of the modes of provision of education is through Christian religious education. Christian religious education is defined as the process whereby Christian learning takes place. It often involves teaching which enables practicing

Research In Religious Education:

Researching Religious Education: Classroom Processes and Outcomes Friedrich Schweitzer, Reinhold Boschki, 2017 The question of how research on structures and outcomes in Religious Education can be carried out successfully is of current interest in many countries Next to the more traditional historical analytical and more recently international comparative approaches empirical research in religious education has been able to establish itself as a major approach to this field Moreover the contemporary discussion about comparative evaluation in schools has raised a number of questions which also refer to Religious Education What competences can pupils acquire in this subject Does Religious Education really support the acquisition and development of the competences aspired Are there differences in this respect between different forms of Religious Education or between different approaches to teaching With contributions from eight European countries the volume brings together approaches and research experiences that try to follow this lead by offering new and empirically based perspectives for the future improvement of teaching and learning in this school subject Whoever is interested in improving the practice of Religious Education then will not be able to bypass the question of researching processes and outcomes an insight which also refers to a small but growing number of studies in this field which can be identified in several countries

Brömssen, Hans-Günter Heimbrock, Geir Skeie, 2017 People form attachments to their home their neighbourhood and environment to the region and nation to which they belong They express feelings about space and place especially so in globalized times In religious studies in theology and in education there is a growing interest in spatial theories either as constructed within national borders or within international and transnational spaces The spatial turn has become an acknowledged term in interdisciplinary discourses Although every practice of religious education is situated and contextually dependent religious education RE research until now has not systematically paid attention to this fundamental insight This volume is devoted specifically to clarifying the close relationship between RE practice and spatial and situational conditions After clarifying the main concepts in Part 1 Part 2 includes chapters related to classroom studies while Part 3 focuses on studies about teachers of religious education Part 4 contains studies beyond the classroom such as school chapels churches and inner space All contributions to this volume were developed in the context of the European Network for Religious Education through Contextual Approaches ENRECA which has focused recently on the central issue of space and place

Religion and Educational Research David Käbis, 2019 Religious education is always a local or regional practice This is evident in the studies in the present volume on religion and education The production and the transfer of knowledge in this field are particular and take place in certain historical contexts so that both can be understood as historical processes With regard to these theoretical assumptions the authors of the present volume deliver case studies concerning religious education research in Germany Ireland Sweden Argentina as well as other countries Several questions from these contributions might be relevant for further studies Is religion being underrated in educational research Is education on the other hand being underrated in religious studies Do these questions depend on national traditions in educational as well as religious research Are there transnational exchanges between countries through networks guilds and media And finally what might be the additional benefits of such research compared to international comparative studies Researching Religious

Education as Social Practice Geir Afdal, 2011 Exploring Context in Religious Education Research Geir Skeie, Judith Everington, Ina ter Avest, Siebren Miedema, 2013 The relevance of contextual perspectives in religious education has been growing for the last decade It has been central to the European Network for Religious Education through Contextual Approaches ENRECA the research network that has produced the present book Several members of the network have contributed to the theoretical and empirical development of contextual approaches in different publications but for the first time this has been the focus of an entire collectively produced volume The history of the book dates back to research seminars in 2009 and 2010 and is based on the discussions in the seminar The chapters have been developed through a process of critical examination Through this process we believe to have produced a coherent and also comprehensively rich book dealing with the issue of context as a challenge and also a stimulus to religious education research and practice The chapters are presenting both empirical research and scholarly investigation into methodological and theoretical dimensions

Taken together we hope that this book will contribute to the further development of contextual thinking in religious education research. Our aim has not been to answer all questions but rather to pose questions and to complicate things in order to enrich the academic field of religion in education.

Researching Non-Formal Religious Education in Europe Friedrich Schweitzer, Wolfgang Ilg, Peter Schreiner, 2019

The traditional focus on Religious Education at school can no longer be the only guiding principle for religious education research if this research is to do justice to the reality of religious education in general. The awareness of the meaning and scope of education outside of the school has clearly grown. However systematic research on non formal religious education still remains rare especially on an international level. It is the intention of this volume to strengthen the awareness of educational settings outside of the school by bringing together research results and research perspectives from different European countries and by discussing the question what non formal education means in terms of religious education. The book includes presentations on specific research projects carried out by the authors themselves as well as summary accounts of the pertinent research from different countries. The chapters take up general questions of researching non formal religious education as well as specific references to different programs such as youth work Sunday School kindergarten confirmation work etc.
