Leadership Relationally Scott Eacott, 2015-01-19 Educational leadership management and administration has a rich history of epistemological and ontological dialogue and debate. However, in recent times at least since the publication of Colin Evers and Gabriele Lakowski's trilogy Knowing, Exploring and Doing Educational Administration, there has been a distinct dearth of Educational Leadership Relationally. Explicitly, it returns matters of epistemology and ontology to the centre of the discussion. Through a sustained and rigorous engagement with contemporary thought and analysis, Scott Eacott articulates and defends a relational approach to scholarship in educational leadership management and administration. Eacott belongs to a group of scholars in educational administration who could be called meta-sociologists. This group blends sociology, historical revisionism, managerial theories and general philosophy to emphasise the relevance of sociological analysis in the field of educational administration. Proposing a relational turn, Eacott outlines a methodological agenda for constructing an alternative approach to educational leadership management and administration scholarship that might be persuasive beyond the critical frontier. The relational research programme is arguably the most ambitious agenda in educational leadership management and administration coming out of Australia since Colin Evers and Gabriele Lakowski's Natural Coherentism and Richard Bates' Critical Theory of Educational Administration. As a research agenda, it engages with the centrality of administration in constructions of the social world, the legitimisation of popular labels such as leadership, the inexhaustible and inseparable grounding of administrative labour in time and space, and overcomes contemporary tensions of individualism, collectivism and structure/agency to provide a productive rather than merely critical space to theorise educational leadership management and administration.

International Handbook on the Preparation and Development of School Leaders Jacky Lumby, Gary Crow, Petros Pashiardis, 2009-05-07 Sponsored by the University Council of Educational Administration (UCEA), the British Educational Leadership Management and Administration Society (BELMAS) and the Commonwealth Council for Educational Administration and Management (CCEAM), this is the first book to provide a comprehensive and comparative review of what is known about the preparation and development of primary and secondary school leaders across the globe. It describes current issues and debates and offers an assessment of where the field of leadership development is headed. Key features include the following: Global Focus this book provides the first comprehensive look at leadership preparation and development across the globe. The chapter authors are distinguished scholars drawn from the US, UK, Europe, Asia, Canada, Australia, New Zealand and Africa. Topical Geographical Focus provides researchers and policymakers with critical descriptions and assessments of both topical and geographical areas. International Expertise chapter contributors are drawn from a variety of theoretical perspectives and represent all major continents.
