Research Questions:

Research Questions Richard Andrews, 2003-12-01 An informative guide to designing and formulating research questions Crucial starting points for research are often poorly conceived by students and researchers resulting in problems as they work through the research and overall design and quality of the thesis dissertation or research project As students and researchers often spend six months to a year getting their research question right this book will help set them on the right road

100 Questions (and Answers) About Research Methods Neil J. Salkind, 2011-06-07 How do I create a good research hypothesis How do I know when my literature review is finished What is the difference between a sample and a population What is power and why is it important In an increasingly data driven world it is more important than ever for students as well as professionals to better understand the process of research This invaluable guide answers the essential questions that students ask about research methods in a concise and accessible way

Constructing Research Questions Mats Alvesson, Jorgen Sandberg, 2013-02-28 All researchers want to produce interesting and influential theories A key step in all theory development is formulating innovative research questions that will result in interesting and significant research Traditional textbooks on research methods tend to ignore or gloss over actual ways of constructing research questions In this text Alvesson and Sandberg develop a problematization methodology for identifying and challenging the assumptions underlying existing theories and for generating research questions that can lead to more interesting and influential theories using examples from across the social sciences Established methods of generating research questions in the social sciences tend to focus on gap spotting which means that existing literature remains largely unchallenged The authors show the dangers of conventional approaches providing detailed ideas for how one can work through such problems and formulate novel research questions that challenge existing theories and produce more imaginative empirical studies Constructing Research Questions is essential reading for any researcher looking to formulate research questions that are interesting and novel

What to Study John Paul Campbell, Richard L. Daft, Charles L. Hulin, 1982 The first step in any research is defining the problems to be studied and the questions to be asked Campbell and his associates review and evaluate the kinds of problems currently being studied in organizational and industrial settings The authors hope not to lay down impossible research ideals but to describe a variety of strategies to enhance the probability of developing interesting and useful research

100 Questions (and Answers) About Survey Research Erin Ruel, 2018-10-19 Erin Ruel's 100 Questions and Answers About Survey Research covers the entire survey research process starting with developing research questions and ending with the analysis and write up It includes the traditional survey topics of design sampling question writing and validity includes a chapter on research ethics covers the important topics of preparing cleaning and analyzing data and ends with a section on how to write up survey results for a variety of purposes Useful as a supplementary text in the classroom or as a reference guide for anyone starting a new survey project the guidance is presented in a FAQ style to allow readers to jump around the book so as to accommodate the nonlinear and iterative nature of research

Critical Approaches to Questions in Qualitative Research Raji Swaminathan,Thalia M. Mulvihill,2017-04-07 Learning how to formulate questions that examine the power relations between the researcher and participants is at the heart of critical approaches This book provides a comprehensive overview and treatment of critical approaches to questions in qualitative research It also examines questions as tools for strategic thinking and decision making at all stages of the qualitative research process Written using examples from research and teaching it situates constructing and formulating questions as a critical aspect of qualitative research that encourages learning to interrogate and inquire against the grain The authors illustrate the ways in which different research questions necessitate different methodological choices framing questions for research interviewing and analysis suggesting some questions that can guide the writing process With exercises sample questions and outlines for planning research this book assists qualitative researchers with creating more effective questions including formulating questions to guide reflexivity meant to confront prevailing assumptions and therefore dismantle and uncover omissions and invisibilities This book stands out among other qualitative research methods books in its focus on critical approaches to questions as the driver of the research imagination Utilising a number of examples there is also a focused discussion of how to arrive at research questions align interview questions with those research questions actively construct questions to guide the data analysis process and use further types of questions to guide the writing process The examples the authors employ include questions drawn from qualitative approaches to phenomenology ethnography life writing feminist research and participatory action research

A Practical Introduction to Real-World Research Loreen Wolfer,2021-01-15 This practical text combines social research methods with coverage of statistical analysis to help students develop the applied research skills needed for future careers in public and private organizations while also delivering a solid foundation for those going on to graduate school Throughout the book the author offers a real world example and then breaks it down into a decision tree which helps lead students to a possible statistical decision rather than starting with the statistic This text gives students a toolbox of the most common and in demand skills and demonstrates how those skills can be used to make the best research decisions The book takes students through the entire real world research process from the formation of a research topic to measurement and sampling to methods for gathering information and making sense of the data and finally presenting to a non academic audience in a way that gets the job done Resources for instructors and students are available on an accompanying website for the book
