

ONE HUNDRED TITLE-PAGES

1500 * 1800

Selected and arranged with an Introduction and Notes by

A. F. JOHNSON

Assistant Keeper of Printed Books at the British Museum

These one hundred title-pages have been chosen as representing the best and most interesting work of the producers of books between 1500 and 1800. They are not, therefore, equally distributed over the period and are not primarily intended to give an historical view of the title-page, although they do so to some extent. Some examples have been chosen for their woodcut or engraved borders, but the typographic setting of the title-page has in general been the guide in the selection adopted. The problems of lay-out are to-day much the same as they were for the early printers. These reproductions are not, then, merely examples illustrating typographic history, but reveal ways of meeting practical difficulties, which face the producer of books in this age as well as in the sixteenth century. Examples of the works of famous book-producers are included, pains being taken to avoid the hackneyed and to introduce variety. The Introduction gives an historical summary of the development of the title-page, and the Notes explain the points of interest for which each page has been selected. The book has been printed at the Curwen Press.
