Out Of Bounds Sports Media And The Politics Of Identity:

Out of bounds ,1997 Out of Bounds A.R. Barley,2016-03-14 When the weather outside starts cooling down inside the dorm things are heating up Can these college roommates fall in love without going out of bounds Beaten and heartbroken Jesse Cole is placed in a new dorm room after his last roommate attacked him Just wanting to be left alone to heal in peace he s shocked when tall dark and dangerous looking Nick Moretti walks in Nick doesn t have time to tiptoe around his new roommate he s too busy working in order to pay for school But something about Jesse brings out his protective instincts As their cautious friendship grows and becomes loaded with sexual tension he wants to make Jesse comfortable Enter the perfect plan a line of tape down the center of the room Boundaries established But as innocent movie nights become hours long temptation marathons and whispered chats from across the room delve into straight up dirty territory crossing the line has never been so satisfying Examining Identity in Sports Media Heather L. Sport: Race, Ethnicity and Identity Daryl Adair, 2013-09-13 Sport has long been a paradoxical environment with respect to issues of race ethnicity and identity For much of the twentieth century sports around the world were enclaves of difference Whites and non whites for example were separated on the sports field as they were in many ways off the field Today sport is much more inclusive with athletic ability of greater importance than skin colour or ancestry Yet enmity and antagonism still appear in sport via instances of racial vilification or hostility between some groups Other problems include the relative absence of minorities from positions of power and influence in sport as well as folkloric assumptions about athletic ability based upon stereotypes about race or ethnic background This book discusses issues of diversity capacity and equity in the colourful world of global sport A panoramic approach covering race ethnicity and identity is consistent with the contemporary global migration of professional athletes as well as the multicultural contexts of sport in various regions This collection of essays therefore addresses international dimensions of sport commonality and difference as well as the special circumstances of sport and social relations in particular places This book was previously published as a special issue of Sport in Society Ethnicity, Sport, Identity Andrew Ritchie, 2004-03-01 The struggle for status within sport is a microcosm of the struggle for rights freedom and recognition within society Injustices within sport often reflect larger injustices in society as a whole In South Africa for example sport has been crucial in advancing the rights and liberty of oppressed groups The geographical and chronological range of the essays in Ethnicity Sport Identity reveal the global role of sport in this advance The collection examines cases of discrimination directed at individuals or groups resulting in their exclusion from full participation in sport and their consequent struggle for inclusion It shows how ethnic and national identity are sources of social cohesion and political assertion within sport and it illustrates the manner in which sport has served to project ethnicity in various often contradictory ways It depicts sport as an agent of conservatism and radicalism superiority and subordination confidence and lack of confidence and as a source of disenfranchisement and enfranchisement That sport has been and continues to be a potent means of both ethnic restriction and release can no longer be ignored Finding God in All the Black Places Beretta E. Smith-Shomade, 2024-10-11 Using a media studies lens of television film music and digital culture Finding God in All the Black Places argues that Black spirituality and church religiosity bolster audiences understanding of and cultural competence with Black popular culture Sporting Cultures David Wood, P. Louise Johnson, 2013-09-13 The essays that comprise this book mark new territory in the study of sport in the Hispanic world a key site of cultural experience for the populations of Latin America the United States and the Iberian Peninsula The scope of the volume is the exploration of the representation and interaction of sport text body in a variety of cultural forms in Latin America Spain and the chicano population of the USA As such it opens a path for further study of an area that is experiencing significant growth in the international academic community The book consists of 11 chapters by different authors and an introduction totalling c 85 000 words The essays deal with the key sporting practices of the Hispanic world including boxing baseball athletics Olympic movements and football approaching them as physical manifestations in their own right and as cultural representations via media images poetry narrative fiction murals through the research methodologies of the humanities and social sciences This book was previously published as a special issue of the International Journal of the History of Sport Sport and the Social Significance of Pleasure Richard Pringle, Robert E. Rinehart, Jayne Caudwell, 2015-06-05 This innovative text s critical examination foregrounds the prime reason why so many people participate in or watch sport pleasure Although there has been a turn to emotions and affect within academia over the last two decades it has been somewhat remiss that pleasure as an integral aspect of human life has not received greater attention from sociologists of sport exercise and physical education This book addresses this issue via an unabashed examination of sport and the moving body via a pleasure lens It provides new insights about the production of various identities power relations and social issues and the dialectical links between the socio cultural and the body Taking a wide sweeping view of pleasure dignified and debauched distinguished and mundane it examines topics as diverse as aging health fandom running extreme sports biopolitics consumerism feminism sex and sexuality In drawing from diverse theoretical approaches and original empirical research the text reveals the social and political significance of pleasure and provides a more rounded dynamic and sensual account of sport Deconstructing Sport History Murray G. Phillips, 2012-02-01 This groundbreaking collection challenges the accepted principles and practices of sport history and encourages sport historians to be more adventurous in their representations of the sporting past in the present Encompassing a wide range of critical approaches leading international sport historians reflect on theory practice and the future of sport history They survey the field of sport history since its inception examine the principles that have governed the production of knowledge in sport history and address the central concerns raised by the postmodern challenge to history Sharing a common desire to critique contemporary practices in sport history the contributors raise the level of critical analysis of the production of historical knowledge provide examples of approaches by those who have struggled with or adapted to the postmodern challenge and open up new avenues for future sport historians to follow

Native Americans and Sport in North America C. King, 2007-11-07 Taking examples from the United States and Canada this comprehensive text offers compassionate and critical accounts of the Native American sporting experience It challenges popular images of indigenous athletes and athletics it explores Native American participation in and appropriation of EuroAmerican sports and it unpacks social categories Commodified and Criminalized David J. Leonard, C. Richard King, 2010-12-28 Commodified and Criminalized examines the centrality of sport to discussions of racial ideologies and racist practices in the 21st century. It disputes familiar refrains of racial progress, arguing that athletes sit in a contradictory position masked by the logics of new racism and dominant white racial frames. Contributors discuss athletes ranging from Tiger Woods and Serena Williams to Freddy Adu and Shani Davis. Through dynamic case studies, Commodified and Criminalized unpacks the conversation between black athletes and colorblind discourse while challenging the assumptions of contemporary sports culture. The contributors in this provocative collection push the conversation beyond the playing field and beyond the racial landscape of sports culture to explore the connections between sports representations and a broader history of racialized violence.

Contesting Identities Aaron Baker, 2003. Publisher's description: Since the earliest days of the silent era, American filmmakers have been drawn to the visual spectacles of sports and their compelling narratives of conflict, triumph, and individual achievement. In Contesting Identities, Aaron Baker examines how these cinematic representations of sports and athletes have evolved over time, from The Pinch Hitter and Buster Keaton's College to White Men Can't Jump, Jerry Maguire, and Girlfight. He focuses on how identities have been constructed and transcended in American society since the early twentieth century. Whether depicting team or individual sports, these films return to that most American of themes: the master narrative of self-reliance. Baker shows that even as sports films tackle socially constructed identities such as class, race, ethnicity, sexuality, and gender, they ultimately underscore the transcendence of these identities through self-reliance. In addition to discussing the genre's recurring dramatic tropes, from the populist prizefighter to the hot-headed rebel to the manly female athlete, Baker also looks at the social and cinematic impacts of real-life sports figures from Jackie Robinson and Babe Didrikson Zaharias to Muhammad Ali and Michael Jordan.
