Greening Affordable Housing Abdullateef Olanrewaju, Zalina Shari, Zhonghua Gou, 2019-01-30 Books on green building theories principles and strategies applicable to life cycles of all kinds of buildings and building types are already widely available However those specifically on greening affordable housing that guide various housing stakeholders at different life cycles are still very limited This book intends to fill this gap Integrating green building enables stakeholders to address the environmental component that has not traditionally been seen as an integral part of affordable housing development The book presents theories and principles with practical methods strategies and processes not only to make affordable housing

green but also to support economic stability and social equity

Decentralization in Environmental Governance

Christian Zuidema, 2016-10-04 Decentralization in Environmental Governance is a critical reflection on the dangers and risks of governance renewal warning against one sided criticism on traditional command and control approaches to planning The book formulates the arguments that support when and how governance renewal might be pursued but this attempt is not just meant for practitioners and scholars interested in governance renewal It is also useful for those interested in the challenge of navigating a plural landscape of diverse planning approaches which are each rooted in contrasting theoretical and philosophical positions The book develops a strategy for making argued choices between alternative planning approaches despite their theoretical and philosophical positions It does so by revitalizing the idea that we can contingently relate alternative planning approaches to the circumstances encountered It is an idea traced to contingency studies of the mid and late 20th century reinterpreted here within a planning landscape dominated by notions of uncertainty complexity and socially constructed knowledge This approach called Post contingency is both a theoretical investigation of arguments for navigating the theoretical plurality we face and an empirical study into renewing environmental governance Next to its theoretical ambitions Decentralization in Environmental Governance is practical in offering a constructive critique on current processes of governance renewal in European environmental governance

Parallel Patterns of Shrinking Cities and Urban Growth Rocky Piro, 2016-05-06 Focussing particularly on urban fringe and rural areas this book addresses the parallel phenomena of growth and decline In doing so it not only broadens a debate which generally concentrates on urban municipalities especially inner city areas but also covers new ground by starting to build a new theoretical framework for the spatial planning related assessment of these phenomena Bringing together contributions from internationally renowned authors such as Sir Peter Hall Steve Ward and Johann Jessen the book compares international case studies and highlights their relationships with one another It concludes by emphasizing common themes that are addressed as well as showing applicability to other urban and rural regions Overall the book provides a timely and comprehensive analysis of the spatial consequences and related spatial planning concepts in theory and practice which aim to further sustainable development of city regions urban fringe and rural areas experiencing growth and decline

A Living Countryside? Tony

Varley, 2016-03-23 By examining a range of experiences from both the north and south of Ireland this book asks what the ideal of sustainable development might mean to specific rural groups and how sustainable development goals have been pursued across the policy spectrum It assesses the extent of commitment to a living countryside in Ireland and compares various opportunities and obstacles to the actual achievement of sustainable rural development How different sectors of rural society will be challenged in terms of future survival provides an overarching theme throughout

Affluence, Mobility and Second Home Ownership Chris Paris, 2010-10-04 Despite the current recession the frequency of second home ownership is still surprisingly high throughout the western world While the UK and Ireland previously had lower occurrences of multiple dwellings compared to the rest of Europe they are quickly catching up with a current surge in the ownership of second homes The recent MP expenses scandal in the UK has also drawn attention to the prevalence of second homes or more within the middle classes and the fact that the concept is becoming increasingly popular Chris Paris uses this text to address the reasons behind why second homes are becoming more popular both within the usual domicile of the individuals and in international locations The socioeconomic factors and historical contexts of homes in cultures across the world are fundamental to explaining the choices in transnational home ownership and Paris case studies and comparisons between additional homes in Europe Australia America and Asia expand upon the motivation for people to own a second home Affluence Mobility and Second Home Ownership draws together debates on gentrification globalisation consumerism environmental factors and investment to provide a balanced look at the pros and cons of second home ownership and what implications it has for the future An ideal text for students studying geography urbanism and planning this book is also of interest to individuals interested in the changing ways in which we make choices on our places of residence

Action on Poverty Today Issue 11 (Winter 2005) , Second Home Tourism in Europe Zoran Roca,2016-04-01 Bringing together a wide range of studies from twelve European countries this book offers a state of the art overview of the driving forces behind spatial diversity and social complexity inherent in second home expansion in all parts of the continent from Scandinavia to the Mediterranean and from the British Isles to Russia in the context of contemporary mobility patterns largely induced by tourism As befits the overall conception of the book as a compendium of current second home research planning and policy issues the book endorses the following multidisciplinary approaches to the second home phenomenon as an expression of the leisure class mobility and recreation based lifestyles as well as a constitutive element of post productivist land use patterns and landscape change and socio economic and territorial development planning and policy related perspectives on social change and spatial re organization provoked by the expansion of second home tourism in times of prosperity and crisis This book shows that second home tourism has become such an important sector of the economy that it is no longer possible to let it develop freely it is the source of new forms of social deprivation it generates residential economies that are particularly sensitive to the economic cycle it often impairs beautiful landscapes and increases human pressure on natural environments As a result it is one of the major physical planning stakes of touristic areas From the concluding essay by Paul Claval Universit de Paris I Sorbonne Paris France

Public History in Global Perspective Georgina Laragy,Richard Legay,Ciaran O'Neill,Hannah K. Smyth,2025-07-21 Where should public history sit within the matrix of global international trans national and more local histories Since its emergence in the 1970s Public History has typically been read as community oriented and more local in its applications The academic field in particular has developed along national lines and indeed we see in the many monographs edited books and journals that have emerged a distinct tendency to consider public history as understandable mostly in its relation to the nation state and its attendant mythologies The meta narratives that public history pushes against are the building blocks of national histories political military and heroic histories Conceiving of a global public history seems to have more radical potential than an international public history which arguably simply collects these national histories What would a global public history look like and how can it disrupt the field if interpreted radically This book will centre the work of scholars and professionals in the field of Public History It will offer novel reflections on postgraduate Public History learning work experience and application from recent graduates and partnered institutions A mix of theory and practice traditional and creative methodologies it demonstrates the value of integrating work experience practitioner workshops and close collaboration in Public History training

'The Next Best Place' Eric David Compas,2008 The British National Bibliography Arthur James Wells,2006 Urban Horticulture Dilip Nandwani,2018-05-19 This book provides comprehensive information on the rapidly developing field of urban horticulture for sustainable use of land resources and creating a better environment It presents peer reviewed chapters from leading international researchers in the field of horticulture technologies environmental issues urban horticulture and landscaping and its role in society It covers a wide array of topics on this subject and constitutes a valuable reference guide for students professors researchers builders and agriculturists concerned with urban horticulture city planning biodiversity and the sustainable development of horticultural resources Urban horticultural technologies facilitate the efficient use of available land in urban and residential areas helping meet the demand for fresh fruits and vegetables to feed ever growing urban populations The amount of green space in urban areas is dwindling due to rising land prices while the climbing numbers of multi story buildings are producing various environmental and health issues Technological advances provide tools and techniques for high density and vertical cropping in small areas promoting efficient and sustainable resource utilization As such urban horticulture is gaining importance in city planning not only to bolster the food supply but also to improve the aesthetic value environmental conditions landscape and business environment while also reducing the consumption of fossil fuel in transportation
